One Killed and Eight Injured in Auto Crashes

JETT TO LAUNCH VIGOROUS CRUSADE AGAINST SPEEDERS

Rigid Enforcement of All Traffic Laws of City Will Be Demanded in Special Orders to Force.

DEATH TRUCK WRECKED AND DRIVER IS JAILED

L. G. Howard, Brother of Former Georgia Congressman, Among Those Injured in Crashes.

A crusade against speeders and traffic law violators will be prosecuted energetically by the police department in line with iron-clad orders being prepared by Acting Police Chief E. L.
Jett, following the death Monday of a 14-year-old Andrew Brown, of 720 Chestnut street, and injuries to eight persons. L. G. Howard, of 61 North Forsyth street, a brother of former Congressman William M.
Howard, of Augusta, is believed to be in a dying condition.

Casualties in auto accidents during Saturday totaled seven, while four were hurt during Sunday. "Immediate action will be taken to curb speeding and every effort will be made to enforce the traffic laws of the city," Chief Jett stated Monday afternoon.

Boy Meets Death.
Brown met his death near Simpson and Ashby streets when knocked from his bicycle by a heavy motor truck driven by a negro, Andrew Watson, who was placed under arrest by the police and is being held without bond, pending further investigation into statements by witnesses that the negro was traveling at a high rate of speed.

After hurrying the boy a distance of several feet, the truck, Call Officers Fred Tiffin and M. C. Williams were told, ran upon the sidewalk and was wrecked upon a pile of rock and gravel.

The injured youth was taken to Grady hospital in the automobile of T. J. Kennedy, 74 Beecher street. The boy died just as he was placed upon the operating table. His skull was fractured and he was internally hurt.

The body was removed to the chapel of Harry G. Poole, who will have charge of funeral arrangements.

In addition to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, two brothers and three sisters survive him. They are Ernest and Marvin Brown, Miss Georgia Brown, Mrs. J. H. Brown and M. Daniel.

Howard Reported Dying.
Mr. Howard is reported to be dying at Grady hospital from a fractured skull and possible internal injuries suffered when struck by an automobile driven by C. W. Counts, of 272 Sunset street, a taxi driver.
Counts, who reported the accident at police headquarters, is held without bond on charges of reckless driving.

Mr. Howard was knocked down by Counts' machine at Ivy street, near Peachtree, at 9:30 o'clock Monday night. It was reported to Call Officers Arthur and Donohoe. Witnesses told police that the driver of the machine, who was then unknown, ran over Howard, backed up, but when he saw that the victim was badly injured, sped on without offering assistance.

Counts Reports Smash.
Officers, who had obtained the license number of the machine, conducted a two-hour search before returning to police headquarters to submit a written report. As they were filling out the report Counts arrested at the station to report the accident.
He said that the victim actually walk-

ALIEN PROTECTION
PART OF PLATFORM OF ELIAS CALLES

Mexico City, April 21.—With the Mexican revolution over, another presidential campaign is beginning.
Plutarco Elias Calles, whose candidacy for the presidency aroused the opposition of de la Huerta and led to the revolt, has begun his campaign tour and is emphasizing that protection for foreigners here is an important plank in his platform.

Before leaving Mexico City, Calles said he would promise complete guarantees for the protection of legiti-mate interests of foreigners in accordance with international law. He also declared that every centavo that Mexico rightly owes will be paid.
Federal troops have gained control of important points in Yucatan, the last rebel stronghold, and it is declared that the revolt is definitely ended.

At left is seen Giovanni Mar-tignelli, the veteran tenor, so popular in Atlanta, who will sing the part of Manrico in this afternoon's performance of "Il Trova-tore." Next in order Giuseppe Danise, another old-time favorite, who will appear as Count di Luna in "Il Trovatore," tunes up on an imaginary guitar. Seated on the terrace of the Biltmore, Rosa Pon-selle, who sings Leonora in Verdi's masterpiece this afternoon, was snapped Monday. Next her in a thoughtful pose is Leon Rothier, who is also of the "Il Trovatore" cast, taking the role of Ferrando.

WINNER IN RACE FOR CITY COUNCIL

D. M. Therrell Is Elected Member of Board of Education at Council Meeting Held Monday.

Wiley L. Moore was elected seventh ward council member and D. M.
Therrell was named seventh ward school board member by city council at its session Monday afternoon.

Mayor Walter A. Sims' votes were overridden by council in appropriating $1,500 of the Inman bequest to Big Bethel charity, in reaffirming its exonerated of Construction Chief William A. Hansell of any wrongdoing in connection with payment for Lloyd street sewer work, and increasing Prison Superintendent T. B.
Lankford's salary from $2,100 to $2,400.

The mayor's veto of the Armistead traffic ordinance was sustained and council voted down Alderman Armistead's motion to reconsider. An ordinance to permit trains to stand 10 minutes at crossings instead of three minutes, as at present, also was killed in concurrence with Mayor Sims' veto.

Bar Lease of Sidewalks.
Council defeated by vote of 19 to 11 an attempt by the sanitary committee to put through a 10-year contract to lease the sidewalks for "trash receptacles." Alderman W. B.

Albert Howell Jr. Bares the Duplicity
Of the Randolph-Bell-Hamilton Machine

Publishes Correspondence Between Mr. McAdoo, Himself and Clark Howell, With Statement of Denunciation of McAdoo by Cohen.

Editor Constitution: My attention has just been directed to a statement recently issued by Thos. J. Hamilton, of Augusta, printed in The Atlanta Journal, in which my name is mentioned.
Mr. Hamilton's frequent and apparently deliberate perversion of the political history of the Mc-Adoo campaign in Georgia have so completely removed him from the class of amateur liars that I was surprised to find in his statement no outright misrepresentation of my own attitude during the campaign.

While conceding my loyalty in devotion to the cause, he seems to take offense because I did not devote "my entire time" to the campaign, exclusively.

Contributed to Fund.

Seeking no office, I served as a member of the confidential executive committee of five, nominated Mr. Hamilton for the chairmanship of the state campaign, gave the organization all of my time not imperatively demanded by my professional engagements, and contributed substantially to the fund which is now being wrongfully expended in propaganda to split the friends of our distinguished candidate, whose gratifying victory was more largely due to the common people of Georgia than to the zeal of our committees or officials.

My own devotion to the cause of Hon. W. G. McAdoo was sufficient to subordinate all other natural considerations to my desire for his nomination, as will be apparent to all those familiar with my past political affiliations.

Before any organization was attempted, Hollins Randolph discussed with me the advisability of a preliminary conference in Atlanta, expressing his purpose to eliminate any friends of Senator Hoke Smith from the conference.

I strongly advised against the injection of any factional politics into the situation, urging my view that Mr. McAdoo, as a Georgian, was entitled to the support of every Georgia democrat, and that any emphasis of factional differences would merely weaken his cause.

At my suggestion, Mr. Bolling Jones, who has always been regarded as the right hand of Senator Smith, was invited to attend the preliminary conference.
At that conference, attended by about ten of Mr. McAdoo's most enthusiastic supporters, I urged the obliteration, in this campaign, of all previous factions, in Mr.
McAdoo's interest.

Invited Smith to Speak.
I personally dictated the telegram to Senator Smith (which was signed by Mr. Hamilton) inviting the senator to speak in Georgia for McAdoo.
Frankly, my sole interest in seeking harmony was in behalf of Mr. McAdoo, based on the result of the Wilson-Underwood campaign of 1912, when Mr. Wilson's defeat in Georgia was principally due to the dominance of the state factional divisions.

Mr. Hamilton had written me on November 21, 1923, for cooperation in the McAdoo campaign, asking if Mr. Clark Howell would put The Constitution behind Mc-Adoo.

I replied on the next day, offering my services, and stating that "I do not think it would be good policy for The Constitution at this time to advocate the cause of McAdoo." I felt that, as individuals, we could accomplish more for the cause, and that the editorial advocacy of The Constitution would probably drive other papers, from factional instincts, to a contrary course.

In the same letter I advised Mr. Hamilton that "it is very probable that we can call to the colors in a common cause, all of the leaders of the various lines of political thought in Georgia, unless that result shall be prevented by any course that might militate into present activity the embers of past factional differences."

Attitude of Constitution.

In response to a letter from
Mr. McAdoo about the same time,
I wrote him on November 19, 1923, as follows:

"I have had several conferences with my Brother Clark, who confirms my opinion that, with proper organization, you will secure the Georgia delegation. It is his purpose to refrain from committing The Constitution to the cause of any candidate, although his personal sympathies are with you, and he has recently rendered us some very helpful services in adjusting complications which threatened trouble. For certain reasons which will doubtless occur to you, I am of the opinion that our cause will be better served by having The Constitution maintain an attitude of neutrality."

Reply of McAdoo.

In his reply of November 24, 1923, Mr. McAdoo wrote me as follows:

"Thank you warmly for your kind letter of the 19th, which is very much appreciated. I am glad to know that you and my other friends are cooperating in Georgia, and I am very much gratified with what you tell me about the situation there. I note especially what you say about The Constitution, and, of course, I am satisfied with any policy Clark and yourself pursue in that regard."

Clark Howell was married in North Carolina on April 5, 1924, and immediately left this country on his wedding tour.

Hamilton's Charges.

Tom Hamilton awaited his departure to circulate literature among the delegates and alternates to the state convention, professing that he had been led to believe that The Constitution would support McAdoo, and that as The Constitution had not done so, Clark Howell should be displaced as democratic national committeeman from Georgia.
In his recent card he admits that I consistently stated that, while Clark Howell was personally helping McAdoo, The Constitution would not, as a newspaper, support the campaign of any candidate.

He will not assert that Clark Howell ever promised him or anyone else that The Constitution would do so.

His purpose, therefore, in taking advantage of Clark How-ell's absence to impute bad faith to him is as apparent as it is unworthy.

The additional reason assigned by him for sacrificing a friend and ally in a common cause was a statement alleged to have been made by Clark Howell to him after the Doherty incident, that "it would eliminate McAdoo."

Beyond Mr. Hamilton's statement, I am not informed whether any such statement was ever made, although I know that many of Mr. McAdoo's friends, who were confident of his integrity and devoted to his cause, felt grave apprehension as to the effect of any retaliatory campaign that might be launched by the republicans, based on the Doherty incident.

Insincerity of Position.
The insincerity of Mr. Hamilton's position is perhaps best illustrated by his treatment of a similar statement from a different source.

About two months ago Mr.
John S. Cohen, who is the slated beneficiary of the Hamilton-Randolph-Bell machine, took me good-naturedly but severely to task for my support of Mr. McAdoo, just after the publication of the Doherty incident.

In the presence of three prominent citizens of Atlanta, all of whom are Mr. Cohen's personal friends, Mr. Cohen said to me:
"You are up against a dead end this time. McAdoo has been smeared all over with oil and hasn't the ghost of a chance for the nomination. Georgia will never go for McAdoo, but will be carried by Underwood. The Constitution ought to come out for Underwood and, if it will do so, we will."

"Will Not Affect Supporters."
I replied: "While the oil incident may affect the bandwagon, it ought not to, and will not, affect the supporters of Mc-Adoo who believe in his integrity and who believe he will win."

Mr. Cohen will not deny the substance of his conversation, as quoted, and if my confidence in his memory should prove unfounded, I can convince the convention by most credible testimony.

And yet, for reasons of his own, not disclosed to the public,
Mr. Hamilton desires to reward
Mr. Cohen for his "unfaltering loyalty to the cause."

It is public history that, after the publication of the Doherty incident, Mr. McAdoo called a meeting of his friends in Chicago, which meeting was attended by Mr. Hamilton, Hollins Randolph and Mrs. Alexander.

Howell his appreciation of the editorial, stating that "It would help McAdoo in Georgia more than anything that had been written during the campaign."

It is equally to be presumed that the above members of Mr.
McAdoo's committee dealt frankly with him in acquainting him with the situation in Georgia.

I have unlimited confidence in Mr. McAdoo's sincerity, and his trusted advisors either dealt frankly with him then and repeated subsequently, or then misled him, because immediately after the Chicago conference Mr.
McAdoo wrote Clark Howell as follows:

McAdoo's Letter to Howell.
"Blackstone Hotel,
Chicago, Ill., Feb. 19, 1924.
"My Dear Howell:

"I learned from my Georgia friends, who have just been here, of your continued cooperation and support in the Georgia campaign, and I want you to know how deeply I appreciate it. I wish you could have attended the wonderful meeting we had here.
It was the most remarkable demonstration, everyone said, of its kind that ever was made. I hope you liked my speech. With warm appreciation of all that you are doing, and with every good wish, I am cordially yours,
"W. G. McADOO."

Is anything further necessary to convince the delegates to the state convention of the duplicity which has been practiced by the Randolph-Hamilton-Bell combination?

Their deception has extended from their treatment of Mr. Mc-Adoo, through their associates in the campaign, to the delegates to the state convention, and will not end until they have reaped their anticipated rewards.

"Ambition Is Insatiate." Already they have filled the honorable offices connected with the campaign, but their ambition is insatiate.

They have appointed themselves as delegates to the state convention, where a majority of them will be candidates for positions as delegates from the state at large.

I am reliably informed that they have themselves slated for cabinet positions, and are only halted in their joint aspirations by the reflection that Georgia can hope for but one cabinet position, and that such position cannot be filled by three of them at once, with a divided vote of one-third each.

I have not been in the confidence of these my associate members of the executive committee, since the successful culmination of the campaign, but I am quite prepared to believe they are willing to subject the delegates to the state convention to any embarassment which might follow the adoption of a program prescribed in their laboratory.

I believe in the intelligence and integrity of Georgia democrats, in and out of conventions, and with equal confidence I believe that the delegates, when fully informed as to the facts, will resent any effort from any source to dominate their deliberations.

THIRD PARTY SHIP

FOR LA FOLLETTE

Definite Decision To Launch New Political Vehicle Reached at Called Meeting.

Washington, April 21.—Plans for the formation of an independent third party, headed by Senator Robert M.
La Follette, of Wisconsin, have been formulated by progressive senators, and it definitely has been decided that La Follette will run for the presidency in November.

An announcement to this effect, however, will not be made until after the republican national convention has been held in Cleveland on June 10.

It was learned Monday that a meeting was held Sunday night at La Fol-lette's home, at which Senators Ladd and Frazier, of North Dakota; Brookhart, of Iowa, and Norris, of Nebraska, republicans; Johnson and Shipstead, of Minnesota, farmer-laborites, and Wheeler, of Montana, and Dill, of Washington, democrats, were present.

Emissaries Are Named.
Johnson and Shipstead, it is reported, will go before the two farmer-labor conventions, one of which will be held in Minneapolis and the other in Cleveland, to seek support of these bodies for the Wisconsin senator. Dill and Wheeler do not intend to come out for La Follette until after the democratic convention has been held in New York on July 4.

People who have seen "Safety Last,"

WARM WELCOME
ACCORDED 'MARTA' ON OPENING NIGHT

Enthusiasm Is Rife as Spectacular Audience Sees 1924 Musical Feast Formally Open.

MME. ALDA'S RETURN
HAILED WITH DELIGHT

Gigli Is Impressive in Tenor Role—Famous Cast Stars in Favorite Vehicle.

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

In a dazzling blaze of glory and brilliance, Atlanta ushered in its 1924 Metropolitan grand opera season Monday night, when a capacity audience at the city auditorium witnessed the premiere performance of the week, Von Flotow's magnificent and melodious "Marta."

The audience, eclipsing all previous seasons in its display of gorgeous toilettes, elegance of costumes, glowing color and sparkling jewels, seemed itself a fluctuating sea of overwhelming beauty.

The partly darkened hall, surveyed from behind the curtain, with the exit light glowing softly as lone floating stars, the crowded parterre and loges, resembled itself an opalescent Oriental night in which myriads of sparkling diamonds and precious stones glittered with the reflection of the footlights. Here and there a white arm moved, as a head was lifted in sideway direction, the watcher caught the gleam of a tiny piercing shaft of iridescence.

Applause for Stars.
When the visiting artists had completed their first act of the opera and Atlanta had experienced again its first taste of the divine melodies, that rippled in golden waves, Madame Frances Alda, and Kathleen Howard were the first to receive the applause that burst with a spontaneity and singleness of purpose, refracting at once Atlanta's love for the world-famous artists of the Metropolitan opera.

No artist could remain unmoved by those scenes of homage and sincere applause, in themselves tableaux of exquisite beauty, when a city in gala attire, the flower of the south's new aristocracy called upon that aristocracy of melody, Signor Gigli, to return to the footlights and receive the acclaim of the glittering glowing throng.

Demand Encore.
It was in the third act that the celebrated tenor singing the swaying aria "Ah, So Fair," in which he reached the zenith of his colorful rich interpretation, that the applause burst forth with thunderous staccato, not to be denied until Signor Gigli had repeated with an encore.

Madame Alda earlier in the evening graciously repeated her "Last Rose of Summer," when the waves of applause beat with incessant demand

Potent Mother Love Softens Heart of Bob-Haired Bandit

Jacksonville, Fla., April 21.—The heart of Celia Cooney, the daring New York job-hair bandit whose ready automatic and cool nerve has stricken a score of victims with terror, has softened with motherhood.

Celia, who returned from the funeral of her newborn babe to be confronted a few hours later by accusing detectives, surrendered without a fight here, claiming a career of crime which has baffled police of New York for months.

"The death of the baby, which we had loved and had so tenderly placed in her little grave, somehow softened my heart," said the 20-year-old bandit-mother in her prison cell here. "I didn't want to fight. It all looks different now."

Voice Loses Crisp Crackle.
When speaking of the babe, Celia's eyes went down and her voice softened in strange contrast to that used when she was sticking up some unfortunate streetwalker.

"When we laid our babe in her little grave something seemed to snap inside. Suddenly all the hardness went out of my heart. Things looked different—we loved her so."

The bandit queen, object of a nationwide police hunt as the aftermath of the serious wounding of a cashier in a recent Brooklyn holdup—the seventeenth since the bob-haired terror first turned to making her living by her handy automatic—looking at the world through the eyes of motherhood, made a complete confession of her sensational life in the underworld, arresting officers declared.

Both Claim Blame for Shots.
"I fired the shots," she said unflinchingly in discussing the robbery of a branch of the National Biscuit company in Brooklyn, in which a cashier was seriously wounded. The girl bandit detailed other of the series of seventeen robberies which have caused New York storekeepers to shrink with fear at mention of her name.

But Edward Cooney, 25-year-old husband of the bob-haired bandit, who has been with his wife in her daring escapades, stood beside her again and stoutly protested that she was the "master mind" of the bandit syndicate and the one responsible for the shooting.

"My wife didn't do that shooting," he insisted in discussing the only case of attempted murder against the couple. "I shot the cashier."

"If I hadn't been for me, Edward would have gone straight," broke in Celia. "I was the cause of all the joyous relief with which the storekeepers learned Celia was at last in the law's hands and on the way to justice.

Maid Was Specter of Fear.
The bob-haired girl bandit has been the dreaded specter of the grocers since January, when she first leaped into the headlines. Hardly a week-end has passed but has not seen the police scoring Brooklyn following a fresh holdup by the girl and her male companion, now supposed to be Celia's husband, Eddie Cooney.

Simultaneously, the Brooklyn coppers might be expected to parade up Broadway (Brooklyn) with the police band blaring out the strains of a victory march. For days at a time, hundreds of coppers in plain clothes have worked exclusively on the bob-haired bandit case, with orders to get her "dead or alive," once the pair held up a drug store directly across from an armory in which 150 reserves were drilling.

Worked Too Near Home.

The final holdup brought disaster to the Cooneys. When the time they had planned outside their own precinct. Then came the National Biscuit company holdup, and people who knew Celia and Eddie made their getaway in a "borrowed" sedan.

After that, it was simple for the coppers. They had identified the bob-haired bandit and her "sheik" accomplice and it was only a question of relentless bloodhound work, with one of the quackies marked and hunted by approaching motherhood, until they were located in Jacksonville.

Prosaic Early Life.

Celia, according to records unearthed by Monday's press, was born on the east side 20 years ago. Her name was Roth and her early life was marked by an unprosperous career as a helper in various laundries.

Monday it was only the girls who used to work in the laundries with Celia, who had a good word for her. She was sweet, but a little bit of a "pinner," one of these girls said, and others hastened to agree.

"I feel sorry for that poor boy," said Mrs. Gallagher, a lady neighbor who said she had ejected them after Celia had bruised and choked her when accused of stealing $20 from the laundry.

Blames the Woman.

"I know he wouldn't have done it if it wasn't for her. She is the one who led him on."

Eddie and Celia are expected back here sometime. These families will be placed against them at once, and their arraignment in court will follow immediately, according to District Attorney Dodd.

Franco-British Accord Seen As Temporary by Germany

Reparations Payments Is Hope of Germans, in View of Simonds.

BY FRANK E. SIMONDS.

Washington, April 21.—While the action of the German government in ratifying the Dawes report at least to the extent of accepting it as a basis of discussion is not only an encouraging but highly significant, it must still be regarded as tactical rather than decisive. Actually the unanimous action of the reparations commission in accepting the Dawes report has entailed the German acquiescence.

You have at once an admirable illustration of the justice of the familiar assertion that when Britain and France are united settlement is possible in Europe and when they are separated nothing can be done. The Germans have accepted the Dawes report, so far as they have accepted it, because they have perceived that with Britain and France agreed upon it and American approval unmistakable, particularly because the report itself is largely an American work, to reject it would be fatal to German position in London and Washington.

Many Obstacles Yet.

But there remain many difficult obstacles to be negotiated. The Dawes report does not—as it could not under the mandate of the experts—deal with such important questions as the sum of reparations and the circumstances of French occupation of the Ruhr, while there is also the very complicated and difficult matter of controls in Germany, which will be the occasion of much debate and material German opposition.

Manifestly the German hope, so far as there is hope, of continued evasion of payment, rests upon the calculation that although France and Britain have agreed upon the terms of the Dawes report, they will presently fail to agree about the matter of French occupation of the Ruhr, military control, and the economic exploitation which the Dawes committee recommends should be abandoned, and that this disagreement will lead ultimately to the destruction of the united front between the allies which has momentarily been restored.

German Election Crisis.

Moreover, it is essential to keep always in mind that the German government, which has accepted the Dawes report, is about to face the dangerous test of a general election, in which the common European notion is that it will be beaten. If it is beaten, it will be by precisely those elements which advocate resistance to all reparations terms and are preaching not peace but a war of revenge.

Assuming that Tuppitt and Ludendorff and the things for which both stand are victorious in the forthcoming election of May 4, the action of existing German ministry in accepting the Dawes report will be of small permanent value, for it is almost certain that the acceptance will then be repudiated out of hand by the men who are making a campaign based upon pledges to continue the war, not to work for peace.

Caution Is Needed Now.

There is then every reason for caution at the moment. So far the whole episode of the Dawes report has been far more fortunate than could have been hoped for six months ago. There has been a unanimous report of the experts, this unanimous report has been unanimously accepted by the reparations commission, it has now been accepted by the German government as the basis for discussion with the allies. No one of these three things seemed conceivable when Mr. Hughes and Mr. Poincaré were in discussion last October.

In addition, not only has France ceased to be even in appearance an obstacle to a real adjustment, but Germany has been brought to a position where she feels, as her ministry's action shows, that she cannot safely reject terms which are far more onerous than she had expected; or, more exactly, she feels she cannot refuse to discuss them.

Next Step Is British.

Now the next step is not German. It must be the nature of things be British. Can France and Britain reach an agreement over the question of the continuation or abandonment of the military occupation of the Ruhr and over the sum total of German reparations, which in reality means the number of years during which the payments fixed by the Dawes committee are to continue, for the total will be disclosed by the term of years of German payment?

In practice this means the discussion of the two questions of British guarantees to France in the matter of security and joint action in case of later German evasion and the adjustment of the whole dispute as to French debts to Britain. France will unquestionably make concessions in the matter of the military occupation only if Britain agrees to join France in forcible pressure upon Germany if Germany again repudiates her pledges. Similarly France will agree to reductions of reparations precisely as Britain—following the line she has already taken in past time—agrees in the extinction of the French debt to herself.

Settle Allied Row First.

Negotiations between the Germans and the allies through the reparations commission must then in reality occupy a subordinate place until complete liquidation of Franco-British differences takes place. If there can be no such liquidation then, in the end, we shall be back where we started, for the German will never buy anything save as he sees France and Britain both agreed and equally determined to compel German agreement.

It seems to me fair to say that the present prospect is the most favorable since the signing of the Treaty of Versailles. There is better chance of British and French concord, there is thus a better promise of German compliance. France is in a mood of reasonableness which is unmistakable and impressive. Britain has the strongest and the most sincere and determined premier in recent years and Europe, from one end to the other—save only perhaps Germany—wants peace.

On the other hand, it is necessary to realize that the Dawes report has settled nothing, that in reality the only thing has been settled, and every one of the old problems which have hitherto proven insoluble remains to be surmounted. We are, then, at the start of a most momentous spring and summer of negotiation in which the future of Europe and indeed of the world for an indefinite number of years may be decided. Indeed it is not an exaggeration to say that we have reached the supreme crisis of the peace-making period, as we reached the crisis of the war-making period six years ago during the great and final Ludendorff offensives.

HOW IS YOUR COLON TODAY?

Tell me how your colon is functioning and I will tell you how you feel, sleep and eat. If your colon is emptying itself freely, regularly and completely every day, you feel young, energetic and vigorous; sleep soundly and awake refreshed; eat with relish, enjoy your meals and digest thoroughly. If your colon is lazy and lacking in tone so that the poisonous matters are being retained and re-absorbed into your system, you feel nervous, irritable, weak, dyspeptic and prematurely old.

Colon poisoning (auto-intoxication) is the most common cause of chronic diseases and premature degeneration of the vital organs. Millions suffer without realizing how easily the cause can be removed. Tell your druggist to send you a bottle of Colotone—the colon tonic. It will quickly restore tone to the muscular walls of your colon. Your toxic condition will disappear and you will feel young, energetic and vigorous. Colotone removes the cause of constipation. Your druggist is instructed to refund the price, one dollar, if you are not thoroughly delighted with Colotone.—(adv.)

Ask, and Have

We miss many a good thing in life because we don't ask for it. A child asks for everything it wants (even for the moon) and gets a mighty big percentage of what it asks for. "Ask and have" is a pretty good rule to follow.

If you will just ask your grocer to send you a pound of White House Coffee, you'll have the kind of coffee that you've probably been looking for these many years.

White House Coffee is a discovery to most people. They wanted it right along. Then, one day they asked for it and now nothing could induce them to have any other kind.

White House Coffee is the finest coffee grown. We select it, roast it, and it comes to you ground, double-sealed and double-packed in the simple, yet perfect White House container. And you cannot obtain better coffee at any price.

Ask and have. Ask today for a pound of White House Coffee. And you and your family will have a cup of coffee that will be a discovery. Be sure the "White House" is on every label. 1, 3, and 5 lb. packages only.

GENERAL STRIKE TIES UP HAVANA

Havana, April 21.—Havana's street car service was stopped today when motormen and conductors quit work in support of the striking dock workers but the 5,000 or more taxi drivers did not join in the general strike and thousands of persons living in the suburbs were able to rely on them for getting to work.

Printers on several of the Spanish language papers went out but the strike did not prove to be general at the start, as ice and milk and other necessities were being delivered.

Cigar and cigarette makers generally remained at work today taking care of tobacco that already had been wet for rolling but little hope was expressed at the principal factories that the men would come to work tomorrow. The cigar makers at the Paragata factory went out today.

About 250 men were at work on the docks according to the harbor association, but at headquarters of the union it was declared that eighty were at work. The government had not furnished policemen up to noon to drive trucks but had been wet for plan to settle the dock strike and while President Zayas and Secretary of Interior Iturrigaray were in conference it was said that a settlement plan was hoped for later in the day.

Raymond Parker, whose first statement furnishing an alibi for Hoffman was later retracted, also was questioned by the grand jury.

President To Sound Keynote For Race at Editors' Dinner

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, April 21.—After sounding his own campaign keynote at New York Tuesday, President Coolidge will return to Washington to confer with party leaders regarding the organization of the Cleveland convention, the question of a running mate, and the platform.

The New York speech has been prepared with extreme care because the president intends it shall stand as the first comprehensive utterance of the presidential campaign. It will serve as the text for the party orators who are just warming up to their quadrennial task.

Coolidge is making the trip to New York in the private car "Adventure," and is traveling alone except for his immediate personal entourage. Chairman John T. Adams, of the republican national committee, and a number of other party leaders will attend the publishers' luncheon and observe the effect of the president's speech.

In New Phase of Campaign. This address will mark the beginning of a new phase in the campaign. Coolidge has now obtained enough delegates to insure his nomination at Cleveland—even if he should lose all of the rest, which he will not do of course. Tuesday, he will add Pennsylvania and New Jersey—a total of 110 delegates to the majority he already has.

Naturally, the president is turning his attention away from the contest for delegates to the incidental affairs of the convention.

A temporary chairman must be chosen and because this functionary's address is supposed to set the pace for the convention orators, the honor is conferred with great care. It is eagerly sought after because it brings national prominence for a day and sometimes leads in later years to the presidential nomination itself.

Harding Keynoted in 1916. Harding was the republican keynoter in 1916 and it was in that capacity that he became known to a large number of delegates who came back to vote for him in 1920. Senator Borah, Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, Senator Wadsworth, of New York, and Representative Longworth, of Ohio, are under consideration for this honor.

More complicated questions are raised concerning the platform. Coolidge will submit a memorandum summarizing his idea of the essential platform.

declarations, to the resolutions committee of the convention. But this committee usually is dominated by senators and in view of the differences between the president and the senate regarding taxes, soldier bonus, the world court, and the difficulty over Japanese exclusion, some negotiations may be necessary in order to arrive at pronouncements on these matters which will be satisfactory to both sides.

As to the vice presidential nomination, Coolidge has refrained from expressing a preference, but at the proper time he will make his wishes known to his lieutenants who will, in all probability, have no difficulty in nominating the president's choice.

COOLIDGE WITNESSES PARADE OF BOY SCOUTS

Washington, April 21.—President Coolidge and members of the special senate committee on forestry reviewed at the white house today a parade of Boy Scouts celebrating the opening of the fourth annual forest protection week.

The parade, headed by W. B. Greeley, chief of the United States forest service, and Colin H. Livingstone, national president of the Boy Scouts, included about a thousand scouts. After the parade, a pageant, entitled "The Demon of Forest Fires," was given near the Washington monument and prizes donated by the American Forestry association were awarded to Boy Scout troops by Secretary Wallace.

HOLDS PRIVILEGE TAX OF MISSISSIPPI VALID

Washington, April 21.—Mississippi's "privilege tax" as applied to the Southeastern Express company was today declared valid and constitutional by the supreme court.

Constitutionality of the tax was challenged by the express company on the ground that it was graded according to the classification of the railroads it used without a rule being provided by law for the classification of the railroad. The express company also objected that it was not heard in the making of the classification.

Marie Corelli, Noted Novelist, Dies in England

Stratford-on-Avon, England, April 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Marie Corelli, English novelist, and author of a score of popular romantic tales, died today from heart trouble at her home here. She had been ailing for some weeks but was apparently recovering when the fatal seizure occurred.

Born in 1864, the daughter of an Italian father and Scotch mother, Miss Corelli was adopted in infancy by Charles Mackay, journalist and writer. She was educated in a French convent and much of her early training was with the idea that she should take up the musical profession but her penchant for writing prevailed, being encouraged by the publication of a number of poems.

Her first book, "A Romance of Two Worlds," was published in 1889 and was followed closely by "Vendetta," "Thelma" and others. Her works, which were mostly tinged with the melodramatic, enjoyed popularity and a wide sale.

Her style was far from flawless and her literary lapses drew sarcasm and references from the reviewers, but her reply to them was that no books of hers were sent to the press for criticism.

She was an opponent of woman suffrage, declaring the members of her sex unfit to exercise the franchise.

TROOPS TO ENFORCE QUARANTINE ASKED

Phoenix, Ariz., April 21.—Federal troops have been requested to re-establish the quarantine against California on the Yuma Indian reservation near Knoch, Calif., it was announced today by the superintendent of the reservation. He said he had advised certain authorities of Imperial county, Calif., to consider themselves under arrest for their part in leading motorists through the federal quarantine area and attempting to break the Arizona blockade against eastbound vehicular traffic last Friday.

Weeks Refuses Request for Troops. Washington, April 21.—Use of federal troops in the enforcement of the foot-and-mouth embargo on traffic between California and Arizona is illegal and requests that troops be made available for that work were denied today by Secretary Weeks.

The secretary acted after he had obtained an opinion from Major General Bellet, judge advocate general of the army.

A request to the war department by Arizona authorities for an army airplane to patrol the Arizona-California border also was denied. Money appropriated by congress for aircraft operations, it was held, could not be expended for such work.

8-HOUR STEEL DAY COSTING $35,000,000

Hoboken, N. J., April 21.—Abolition of the 12-hour day in the steel industry is costing the United States Steel corporation about $35,000,000 a year and is adding 10 per cent to the cost of operation, Chairman E. H. Gary told stockholders at their annual meeting today.

"No one can precisely state what the net result of the action will be," Mr. Gary said. "Certainly we accomplished two things. One, we satisfied the late President Harding just before his death.

"Two, we met public sentiment, however it may have been created." Officials of the steel corporation, Mr. Gary asserted, for years have been in favor of abolishing the 12-hour day, not because it was in itself an evil nor because workmen desired it, but because there has been growing public sentiment for its elimination.

A stockholder asked Mr. Gary for his opinion of the proposed development at Muscle Shoals of an alloy substitute for steel. Mr. Gary replied that he had no desire to injure the enterprise of another, but that he believed there was "considerable wind" in the project.

3 FACE CHARGES FOR MAN'S DEATH

Ludowici, Ga., April 21.—An indictment of first degree murder was returned today by the Tattnall county grand jury against C. A. Sallette, D. P. Sallette and Ross Hodges of this county charged with the killing of J. A. McDaniel, marshal of the town of Ludowici January 26.

The Sallette brothers and Hodges have been held at Jasp awaiting the action of the Tattnall county grand jury. Because of the overruling of the indictment returned by the Long county grand jury in March and the inability to secure a qualified jury in this county, the case was brought before the Tattnall county grand jury at Reidsville today.

Long county superior court was recessed until May 12, when this case will be brought to trial, if a qualified jury can be obtained from the recently revised list.

SANITARY WORKERS FACING BUSY WEEK

Atlanta's clean-up, paint-out activity showed a marked increase Monday, the day after Easter, and figures in the sanitary department office indicated grand opera week would be the busiest in the department's history.

A flood of telephone calls from householders who had cleared their premises of trash and wanted it hauled away kept the special "clean-up" truck spinning through the city all Monday.

Chief John Jentzen stated that it might be necessary to keep in service for at least one more week the 30 trash carts which had been scheduled for abandonment Wednesday when three big new motor garbage trucks are to be put in service.

"Clean-up" headquarters it was reported that heads of 60 subcommittees that many civic organizations in the campaign, had launched an intensive opera week drive for cleanliness.

Prizes were announced for schools which send in the most acceptable record of cleanliness work done by school children. Questionnaires were in the hands of nearly 50,000 children to be returned next Monday with a full record of work each youngster had done. Work during the present week counts the same as work during the first week of the drive, it was stated by J. J. Coolidge, Jr., secretary of the campaign committee.

Chief of Construction William A. Hausel Monday was continuing the street repair work launched last week as part of the clean-up campaign. It was stated that repairs might not be completed before the latter part of the week.

Father Takes Law Into Own Hands; Kills Son's Slayer

Chicago, April 21.—A father refused to await the process of law, but shot and fatally wounded his son's slayer, John Rose, outside a court room in the county building today.

A half dozen shots rang through the marble corridors and threw the county courts into a turmoil as Rose dropped. He died in a nearby courtroom.

Rose was facing trial for murder in connection with a shooting at the Checker Taxi Cab company's plant.

A man named Sexton, said by the police to be the father of Rose's victim, and to have shot Rose, was rushed to a cell.

RECLAMATION POLICY REVISION IS URGED

Washington, April 21.—Immediate revision of the reclamation law along the lines indicated in the report of Secretary Work's fact-finding commission was recommended to congress today by President Coolidge.

In a special message the president declared adoption of a "definite policy" toward reclamation projects to be imperative, and asked that "permanent relief" for settlers, rather than temporary extensions in reclamation payments, be authorized by law.

The message follows: "I would respectfully urge on congress the immediate necessity of revising the present reclamation law."

"The secretary of the interior appointed a special advisory committee of six members to study reclamation and make reports to him. That committee has completed its work and has made its report to the secretary of the interior and he has transmitted that report to me and I herewith transmit it to you.

In Financial Distress. "Many occupants of our reclamation projects in the west are in financial distress. They are unable to pay the charges assessed against them. In some instances settlers are living on irrigated lands that will not return a livelihood for their families and at the same time pay the money due the government as it falls due.

"Temporary extensions of time and suspension of these charges serve only to increase their debts and add to their hardships. A definite policy is imperative, and permanent relief should be applied where indicated. The heretofore adopted repayment plan is erroneous in principle and many cases impossible of accomplishment. It fixes an annual arbitrary amount that the farmers must pay on the reconstruction costs of projects, regardless of their production.

"In its place should be substituted a new policy providing that payments shall be assessed by the government in accordance with the crop-producing quality of the soil.

Big Sum Is Lost. "The facts developed by the special advisory committee show that of the government's total investment, $18,821,145 will never be recovered. There will be a probable loss of an additional $8,830,000. These sums represent expenditures in the construction of reservoirs, canals and other work for the irrigation of lands that have proven unproductive and which farmers on the government farm have abandoned.

"Because high rates of interest and other agricultural exigencies, farmers are often unable to borrow money for temporary relief. The establishment of a credit fund by the government from which farmers on projects may secure capital to make permanent improvements and buy equipment and livestock should be considered.

"The probable loss and the temporary difficulties of some of the settlers on projects do not mean that reclamation is a failure. The sum total of beneficial results has been large in the building up of towns and agricultural communities and is adding tremendously to the agricultural production and wealth of the country. Whatever legislation is necessary to the advancement of reclamation should be enacted without delay."

Try Her Way The way millions now employ to fight film on teeth

Try the method which is bringing the prettier teeth you see.

It is the modern method of teeth cleaning. Millions now employ it. The results are seen in every circle, in those whiter, cleaner teeth.

It means new beauty, new cleanliness, new charm. Let this test prove that to you.

Why teeth decay and discolor

You feel on teeth a viscous film. Much of it clings and stays. No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it.

Food stains, etc., discolor it, so it forms dingy coats. That is why so many teeth are clouded.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Very few escaped these troubles under old ways of tooth brushing. Just because they did not combat that film.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Science has in late years found effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Leading dentists the world over began to urge this method. Now careful people of some 50 nations employ it in their homes.

No one can doubt the results

The results are quick and convincing. And they are necessary. Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the ptyalin in saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth.

These combined results bring one quickly a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then decide if your home should adopt this modern method. Cut out coupon now.

HOOKER EXPLAINS HIS SHOALS OFFER

Washington, April 21.—A. B. Hooker, technical director of the Hooker Electrochemical company, Niagara Falls, N. Y., today gave the senate agricultural committee testimony in favor of the Hooker-White-Atterbury bill for Muscle Shoals.

"I have been called upon to tell you how we intend to produce and distribute cheap fertilizer to the farmer from Muscle Shoals," Hooker said, "and why our proposal will deliver a greater amount and a cheaper fertilizer at less cost, or at greater profit, to the United States government, than any other offer whether by Ford, by the power companies or by direct government operation."

"First, I will make the statement that we are directly interested in a plant which has been constructed at Niagara Falls to utilize the hydrogen from our electrolytic chlorine and caustic soda plant and fix atmospheric nitrogen and produce synthetic ammonia."

"The process used is the Casale process and these plants have already been constructed in Italy, France, Spain and Japan, hence the process is no experiment. Based upon known operating costs and particularly our Niagara Falls attempts upon which we are doubling output, we feel confident that ammonia by this process can be produced at Muscle Shoals with a net cost of less than one horsepower year at materially less than 6 cents per pound which is about one-half the present wholesale price for ammonia in its cheapest available form and less than one-fourth the price the farmer ordinarily pays for this ammonia as a delivered fertilizer."

Bandits of Cigar Store Are Sought In Vain by Police

Detectives combed the city in vain Monday for clues to the identity of the two youthful bandits who Sunday night were reported to have robbed the D. A. Schulte Cigar store, Broad and Marietta streets, of approximately $100 in cash, after forcing the clerk on duty, J. W. Lindsey, to retire to the basement of the store at the point of a pistol.

This is the second daring robbery of the same store reported within a period of two weeks. The first time only one "gunman" staged the affair. In both instances, the robbers are reported to have waited on customers who came in during the period of their stay in the store, to throw off suspicion that a hold-up was being staged.

Other robberies reported to the police Monday included the burglary of the Cash Drug store, 264 Auburn avenue, where $3 in change was obtained as well as a small quantity of tobacco and cigarettes, and the residence of Mrs. J. L. Dodson, 241 Pulliam street, where a quantity of clothing was taken.

WATKINS APPEARS BEFORE COMMISSION

Edgar Watkins, of Watkins & Asbill, law firm of Atlanta, appeared last at the hearing last week before the interstate commerce commission on behalf of the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills, which along with other shippers, protested the ruling on Section 28 of the Marine Act on the ground that, inasmuch as there were not adequate shipping facilities by American registered vessels from many ports, it would be discriminatory against such American shippers that they be compelled to use foreign vessels at the higher rates. The commission made the act effective June 30, instead of March 20, as originally set.

Ford Not To Appear.

Henry Ford informed the senate agriculture committee today that it would be impossible for him to appear in person before the committee to explain his Muscle Shoals bid.

The committee received a letter today from E. G. Leibold, Ford's general secretary, saying that W. B. Mayo, Ford's chief engineer, would appear instead.

SPLIT SEEMS LIKELY IN A. M. E. CHURCH

Nashville, Tenn., April 21.—(Special.)—A split between the north and south in the A. M. E. church appears highly probable, according to Bishop J. S. Flipper, of Atlanta, who is in Nashville for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Sunday school board of the church Wednesday. Bishop Flipper states that sentiment for and against retention of the present secretary, I. T. Bryant, is probably a cloud behind the real motive, and states that leading negro newspapers point out that the northern section of the church is jealous because the board has headquarters in the south and is controlled by southerners.

Reports that the secretary had criticized certain bishops and that these bishops had in turn demanded the ousting of the secretary, were scouted by those who "knew the situation."

Work Satisfactory.

The present secretary's work has been satisfactory to the board, on the whole, it is pointed out, and that it appears likely that he will be retained despite threats of the northern supporters to withdraw.

The Sunday school headquarters was founded 30 years ago by Bishop Henry M. Tamm and C. S. Smith and has been freely patronized by northern churches, preachers and delegates, it is said.

It is reported that Bishop Flipper is in sympathy with the Sunday school house and has said that it has done "more solid work and accomplished more for the good of negro masses in the south" than the Book House, in Philadelphia, and in other places combined.

Property Is Valuable.

The property here is valuable and well located and sends out thousands of pieces of literature, of all grades and classes, to the negro churches in all nooks and corners from Philadelphia to Texas, and from Charleston, S. C., to California.

Bishop Flipper is quoted as saying: "The Sunday school department is less expensive to the A. M. E. church than any other department of the church." When Bryant was asked about his report he said that they would make the best report before the board Wednesday that has been made since the founding of the place. When he was asked why his denomination was not more active in the department, Professor Bryant said: "The house was in the south and a large number of northern churches had never taken the Sunday school seriously. Bryant stated that he had

The pillars collapsed, causing the roof to fall in. Mr. and Mrs. Huskey sustained only slight injuries.

CONFISCATED RUM SORTED OUT, CLAIM

Washington, April 21.—Further charges of dereliction in enforcement of the prohibition and anti-trust laws under Attorney General Daugherty were heard today by the senate Daugherty committee.

F. M. Boucher, a former department of justice investigator, testified that confiscated liquor was "sorted out" at the department while he was employed there, and the best of it had been taken to the office of the chief of the investigation bureau to supply "officials" and others. He was followed on the stand by Alonzo M. Bunch, who told the committee that 100 cases of whisky illegally taken from him had been "hailed away and delivered to people all over town."

Called to testify regarding anti-trust cases, Houston Thompson, chairman of the federal trade commission, said it had been "useless" for the commission to turn over to Mr. Daugherty the evidence it had gathered from time to time warranting criminal anti-trust prosecutions. Until the impeachment charges were made in the house against Daugherty in 1922, he said, the commission could not even get replies to its letters on these subjects.

Gillett Questions Seale.

Sneaker Gillett appeared at the committee and questioned H. L. Seale, committee witness, as to his statements that liquor seized in Washington by prohibition agents some years ago went to Gillett's office.

"Where did you get your information?" the speaker asked.

"Most of it came from Mr. Woodruff," said Seale.

"Congressman Woodruff?"

(Representative Woodruff, a republican, is from Michigan.)

Seale, a former department of justice investigator, insisted that his original testimony "needed no correction" to his knowledge. He reiterated that "information" was that the speaker got the liquor for a "constituent."

The witness then turned to the speaker and asked if he "denied" that the liquor had gone to his office.

"I certainly do," said Gillett.

"Do you deny that a trunk went there?" Seale persisted.

Gillett said a constituent's trunk had been taken to his office but that it had no liquor in it.

Sneaker Gillett then made a statement to the committee under oath. He said that in the spring of 1922 he had heard and denied the report that a "trunk of liquor" had come to his office.

"On investigation, he said, he found that a trunk from which liquor had been removed had been sent to his office for a constituent in 1919.

Whisky Removed.

"This was before the Volstead law, but it was against the law to transport liquor through dry territory," the speaker said, adding that his friend who owned the trunk, "a very distinguished citizen of Springfield, Mass.," had been bound on a fishing cruise and had "six bottles of liquor in the trunk." It was the breaking of one of these which led to the seizure.

The speaker said he was out of the city at the time and his secretary arranged to obtain the trunk and the clothing it contained, but not the liquor, and ship it to "Mr. B." in Springfield.

Later he told Representative Woodruff all of the circumstances, he said, and was assured that "Mr. Seale would not give any more publicity to the matter. It was printed in Springfield, however, the speaker added, "substantially as I have told it here."

"Everybody likes a joke on a prominent man," he said.

Department of justice records were produced by the speaker, and the liquor had been removed, and said Seale knew this when he testified.

"I think it is an outrage," the speaker said.

"I don't know what his motive is. If he had told the whole facts, it would have entirely exonerated him."

"For a witness before you to throw out a bold statement that I got liquor from the department of justice when he knew the facts, or had opportunity to know the facts—well, that's an outrage. I won't try to conjecture what his motive may be—he may desire notoriety."

Seale insisted his "information" not only came from Representative Woodruff, who had been active along with Seale in the impeachment fight against Attorney General Daugherty in 1922, but from "various sources."

Among other things, he said, "there was a report by Special Agent Cox." He also named Dr. Samuel Wright and a man named Bunch, who brought suits to recover some liquor seized at the Union station here.

Booze for Daugherty.

The committee then called F. M. Boucher, former department of justice investigator, who testified "he was dismissed" by William J. Burns "when he came in." He said he had made one "delivery" of seized liquor to a "house on H street."

"Who lived in this house?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Smith," "You mean Jess Smith?"

"Yes."

The witness said he had "escorted" the liquor consignment to the H street house but didn't know to what person it was delivered. As to other deliveries, he referred the committee to "the boys who drove the cars, who made the deliveries."

Boucher testified that during his employment "there was always a supply of liquor in a safe in the chief's office," meaning the office of the chief of the bureau of criminal investigation of the department of justice. This liquor was always "given to people," he said.

Boucher said he had seen seized liquor "stowed" in the chief's office, and the "best of it put in the safe," while the rest was taken to the basement.

The delivery to the house on H street, Boucher said, was in 1921, "after the attorney general took office."

"How much was taken to Daugherty's house?" Chairman Brookhart inquired.

"It was four or six quarts," Boucher said.

The liquor taken from Bunch, he said, was "spread out on the floor in the office of the bureau of investigation, and the good liquor taken out and put in the safe, while the bad was taken to the cellar."

He saw the performance, he said, and an "agent named Alden and Grover Williams, secretary to the chief," did the work.

Bunch, he said, "was stalled off" when he tried to get back the liquor with a court order.

Under cross-examination Boucher said he was "angry" about his discharge, but "got over it."

Alonzo E. Bunch, who said he was a Washington liquor dealer "until the District of Columbia went dry," then testified that the committee's seizure of more than 100 cases of liquor belonging to him in October, 1918. A court order directed that the whisky be returned to him in April, 1922, he said.

"Did you get it?" asked Chairman Brookhart.

"No sir," said Bunch. "I never got a bottle."

W. J. Burns had told him that the seized whisky was "gone," Bunch said, and "passed the buck" by sending him to the treasury department.

Bunch added that his attorney, former Judge Wright, had "all the records" as to how this liquor was "hailed away" from the department of justice and "delivered to people all over town."

In his search for his whisky, the witness added, he encountered W. O. Duckstein, one of the confidential men for E. B. McLean, Washington publisher, and "got a proposition" for return of the liquor, but refused it.

"Ed McLean's house got the majority of this whisky," Bunch asserted, "and I understand this fellow Gillett got some of it."

"I wish you wouldn't volunteer such statements," put in Senator Jones, republican, Washington.

"Who told you it went to McLean's house?" asked Chairman Brookhart.

"I was told that by the man who hauled it from the warehouse," Bunch replied.

He said he had written three letters to President Harding and two to President Coolidge about the matter.

Atlanta Guard Testifies.

J. E. Wilkins, a guard at Atlanta penitentiary, superintending the prison school, was questioned by the committee about the drug traffic there.

I found drugs were being brought in," Wilkins said, "seemingly it was being used all over the prison."

He reported it to J. E. Dyche, then the warden, Wilkins said.

Wilkins said, "The drugs are still going, in."

George Remus, a "millionaire bootlegger" from Ohio, was a "private room and bath" in a hospital section of the prison, the witness went on, with privately served meals from the "officials' mess." There are two other "millionaires" in Atlanta, he asserted, and "other prisoners who inquired about the privileges were told they could get the same treatment if they had the money."

"Remus now has a pass which allows him all over the institution," he said, "sits at the hospital, and sleeps at the isolation apartment."

"I judge from your testimony these men pay money for these privileges," Senator Jones said.

"It is rumored the money goes to officials, and tips to waiters and cooks," Wilkins said. "I cause a great deal of ill feeling."

"I don't see how they could get these privileges without official sanction," "The deputy warden" would have responsibility for conditions, Wilkins said, and the hospital was not complained.

"The fellow who has the most political pull or influential friends outside has the best treatment," Wilkins Fletcher, came from Leavenworth.

"Things are in very bad condition and have been worse during this administration," he added, "I have been trying to get out for some time. I was suspended on April 16."

Thompson on Stand.

Houston Thompson, chairman of the federal trade commission, was called to the witness stand and questioned about the attitude of the justice department toward anti-trust cases reported from the trade commissions.

The committee chairman said the department of justice under Harry M. Daugherty had not been active in pressing anti-trust cases originating here the commission stated, particularly the "tobacco cases," and that he had "felt it was useless to take up cases with the department of justice."

Chairman Thompson took oath as other witnesses have done, and Senator Wheeler asked him to state his association with anti-trust law prosecutions.

"Has there been any change in the way the department of justice functioned under Mr. Daugherty, from the way it did before?" Senator Wheeler asked.

"There has been a change since the Keller investigation" (the impeachment proceedings), Chairman Thompson said. "We have been able to get replies from the department of justice to some letters since. In February, 1922, we asked the attorney general to institute suits in the tobacco cases, and couldn't even get an answer."

There "was no chance to get action" during 1921 and 1922 from the department of justice in complaints as to combinations in restraint of trade, Mr. Thompson declared.

Mr. Thompson read parts of letters addressed by the commission to Mr. Daugherty, submitting suggestions as to tobacco price combinations in February and April, 1922, which Nelson B. Gaskill, then chairman, considered actionable under the Sherman law.

"We waited 10 months," Mr. Thompson went on, "and got no answer, but in December, 1922, the house impeachment proceedings came up. Then we got an answer."

"You only sent over to the department of justice cases where you found flagrant violations of the law?" Senator Wheeler asked.

"Yes," Mr. Thompson went on, "from 1919 on, only cases where there had been very thorough examinations went to the department of justice and only when commissioners felt it their duty to have the department of justice consider criminal prosecutions."

"Your investigation in 1920 found there was a combination of tobacco manufacturers fixing prices to consumers and producers?" Senator Wheeler asked.

"We found that there were combinations of jobbers assisted by manufacturers to hold up the price of finished products," Chairman Thompson said, "and that the buyers of raw tobacco were staying off the market so there was a tremendous drop in the farmers' price."

Senator Jones remarked that in the tobacco cases "I shall want to have some pretty clear reasons as to why the department of justice wouldn't even answer these letters."

Chairman Thompson read part of a transcript upon a conference between department of justice officials and the trade commission on the tobacco cases, which finally took place in January, 1923. Mr. Daugherty was not present.

As a result of this conference, Chairman Thompson continued, the department prepared some papers instituting court proceedings in the tobacco cases.

"But nothing was ever presented to a court," he said.

Assistant Attorney General Seymour, later in 1923 notified the trade commission by letter that the cases were to be held up to await future developments.

ROW OVER VET BUREAU TAKEN TO PRESIDENT

Washington, April 21.—A disagreement of long standing between Chairman Reed and Senator Odell, of Nevada, the republicans on the senate veterans bureau investigating committee, as to whether there should be immediate and sweeping changes in the organization of the bureau, was taken today to President Coolidge.

After listening to the senators for some time, the president took the matter under advisement. It is expected that he will confer with Director Hines before reaching any conclusion.

Upon leaving the white house, Senator Odell summed up his criticisms of the bureau in this manner:

"Improper functioning, from the part of the war risk insurance and the veterans' bureau due to wrong policies, improper organization, and incompetent personnel in the principal positions."

Senator Reed made this statement: "I am in agreement with Senator Odell about the results to be obtained, but I am not in agreement with him on the methods of obtaining them."

Both senators emphasized that their disagreement was perfectly friendly one. It is fundamental, however, as Chairman Reed takes the position that Director Hines should be given a free hand to work out the difficulties encountered in speeding up claims and in dealing generally with the veterans. On the other hand, Senator Odell holds that the director cannot obtain the best results with his present corps of assistants.

DEMOCRATIC PLANS FOR MEET ADVANCE

New York, April 21.—Chairman Correll Hull, of the national democratic committee, conferring today with members of the subcommittee on convention arrangements prior to a formal session of that body tomorrow, declared that everything was more nearly in readiness for the June session than was true at this stage of any convention within his memory.

J. Bruce Kramer, of Montana; Judge Walter P. Moore, of Alabama; Norman E. Mack, of New York; Stanley J. Quinn, executive secretary of the local nonpartisan convention committee; and George F. Mara, executive secretary of the national democratic committee, attended today's informal conference.

Among those who, according to Mr. Hull, have been prominently suggested as candidates for temporary chairmanship of the national convention, which officer will deliver the keynote speech of the party—are Representative Garrett, of Tennessee; Senator Harrison, of Mississippi; Honorable B. Cummings, of Connecticut; Thomas R. Marshall, former vice president, and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas.

CONSTITUTION HOST TO STARS TONIGHT

Howard management to let them view it, anyway.

The opera singers and dancers and technicians and musicians and everybody always have a good time in Atlanta. They admit that—and Atlanta hopes they will never have reason to do otherwise. But it does seem that this opportunity will give the stars a chance they have never had before. Their enjoyment has always been of the quiet, restful sort. Tuesday evening they will be rocked with gales of laughter that are sure to sweep over them when they view this newest of Lloyd's.

It is rare that a moving picture stands so completely out above its kind. Once in a while a super-picture arrives. And it is especially seldom that the prefix "super" is justifiably tacked on to a comedy. But this time it is proper. Harold Lloyd has been absent from the screen for a comparatively long while; everybody wonders why. Now the reason has leaked out. He has been saving up the whole-souled comedy he has just put into "Girl Shy." And his temporary absence will be more than atoned for by his return.

If you don't believe all that, ask some of the opera stars who are going to get just a bit of a jump on everybody else in Atlanta and see the picture at the private view.

THIRD PARTY SHIP FOR LA FOLLETTE

To have caused La Follette to call this meeting and reach the decision to run this fall. Some time ago he threatened, through spokesmen, to bolt the party to which he has adhered so long if a man of the conservative type were nominated.

Like British Labor Party. Realizing that both old parties have been tainted by the oil scandal and thoroughly disgusted with their failure to aid the farmer in his present plight, it is believed a third party can make capital of the agrarian unrest and the feeling in many trade unions that the time is ripe for a progressive third party.

One observer who was present at the meeting declared the party would be modeled along the lines of the British labor party, with the exception that here the agrarian influence would predominate instead of the trade union.

Belief in elimination of William G. McAdoo from the democratic list of candidates has been an added influence in the decision of these senators, it was said. This linking of McAdoo with oil interests has thrown the progressive railroad brotherhoods on the voting market without a candidate, and La Follette believes he can obtain their 2,000,000 or more votes with his government ownership plank.

As yet no definite platform has been formulated, and announcement of this will be held in abeyance until after both old parties have held their conventions, but the spirit of unrest in the northwest and midwest farm districts and the desire of large blocks of labor for a third party probably will dictate it.

Meanwhile it is intended quietly to build a national organization from the political elements which desire a more radical party than now exists.

Being an astute politician, La Follette realizes he must have an organization to get any chance. He does not intend that the third party shall die after the coming election, but wishes to make a permanent institution of it.

260 DIVORCE CASES FACING JUDGE ELLIS

Facing a docket of 260 cases, Judge W. D. Ellis' division of Fulton superior court Monday began turning out first and second verdicts for divorce, a branch of business reverted to by the court six times a year. Judge Ellis stated from the bench that nonsupport commonly considered statutory ground for divorce, will not alone support a verdict. He said for a petition to allege nonsupport was merely to offer illustration of the character of the defendant.

An average of 1,000 divorce verdicts is granted in Fulton county every year, counting first and second verdicts.

What court attaches considered a "feature" case was that of Mrs. Jewell Freeman Somboulis, who alleged she married Victor Somboulis, believing he was a millionaire restaurant owner of Louisville, Ky. She said all he actually owned was a banana stand, and that when she discovered to selling the fruit he struck her.

Casts of two ancient Egyptian water clocks have just been presented by the Egyptian government to the Science museum, South Kensington, London, England. One of the clocks comes from Karnak, and dates from the reign of Amenhotep II, 1,400 years before Christ. The other is from Edfu, in the Nile valley, and is of the Ptolemaic period. From an examination of these clocks and the scale of measurements recorded on each, it appears that the "hour" of that remote period was a variable length, being one-twelfth of the length of the day or night of the particular time of the year. A study of these ancient timepieces is regarded as important in the comparison of astronomical observations.

Coolidge at Work Submits to Gaze Of Many Visitors

Washington, April 21.—More than 1,000 Easter holiday visitors filed through the executive office Monday and saw President Coolidge working at his desk. Under this new custom, inaugurated to save the president from the fatigue of hand-shaking, the visitors are instructed to walk quietly through the president's office. The president remains at his desk working over his official papers.

Senator Heflin, of Alabama, democrat, criticized this new practice in a senate speech.

"You usually judge a man by his handshake and maybe it was necessary for Sleep to put through this new order," Heflin said. "It is consoling to know that the public may tiptoe past the president's desk and see him at work."

Coolidge introduced the plan purely as an experiment and it may be discontinued if it is found unsatisfactory.

Nashville, Tenn., April 21.—Tillman Funk, local cigar salesman, was found dead in a park here this afternoon with a bullet wound in his head. Funk's letter to the press said he had been until recently southern manager for a Philadelphia cigar company, representing the firm in eight states.

Duvall, who was presiding, ruled the paper out of order. Councilman Harry V. Duvall, who was presiding, ruled the paper out of order.

Alderman Duvall announced that he would present a similar contract at the next meeting.

Council approved reinstatement of nine pensioners who had been cut from the pension list by Mayor Sims the first of the year on the ground that the men were earning their own livings. The mayor has made plain his purpose of vetoing the papers when they reach him. The pension committee likewise has made plain its purpose of leading a fight to override the mayor and pay the pensions notwithstanding the veto.

Moore Wins Contest

Wiley Moore's election as seventh ward councilman decided a spirited contest that has been in progress ever since the funeral of the late Arthur Dyer, who had held the seat. Mr. Moore was placed in nomination by Alderman Armistead at a council meeting two weeks ago, but election was deferred on motion of Councilman W. C. Jenkins, as a mark of respect to the memory of Mr. Dyer.

Mr. Jenkins Monday nominated W. M. Rogers, who had been defeated by Mr. Dyer two years ago with a margin of seven votes. Councilman T. L. Slappey made the second speech.

Mr. Armistead again nominated Mr. Moore and Alderman W. B. Hartsfield seconded the nomination.

On roll call the vote cast was 23 for Moore and 13 for Rogers. Mr. Moore immediately assumed the seat as member from the seventh ward.

Sale of Steam

Council approved the contract with the Georgia Railway and power company for sale of steam from the city incinerator which, it is estimated, will net the city about $23,000 each year. The contract goes to Mayor Sims for approval.

Charter amendments calling for repeal of the present regulation requiring that fees be charged for permits for building and electric work and requiring 10 per cent of land in residence subdivisions to be deeded to the city for park uses were referred to the charter revision committee.

An ordinance to prohibit householders from laying sidewalks in front of their premises, requiring that all sidewalks be laid by city contract, was referred back to the street committee to be revised so as to permit householders to lay sidewalks up to the time a contract is let by the city.

Street Car Franchise

A franchise was granted to J. R. Smith and associates to build and operate a street car line from the present terminus of the Boulevard line to the city limits, passing through Morningstar Park. It was said to be the purpose of the real estate developers to build and operate the line themselves. Courtland S. Winn, former mayor, appeared to urge adoption of the franchise ordinance.

Alderman I. N. Ruzsade announced to council that no action could be taken toward water rate reduction before the next session two weeks hence. He said the finance committee intended to file its report looking toward a reduction by June 1. Council two weeks ago had instructed the committee to submit a report on the credit side of the budget and to recommend a new water rate to produce $200,000 less revenue than the rate now in effect.

Manhole Action Delayed
The aldermanic board held up petitions by the Georgia Railway and Power company to enlarge manholes in Mitchell street between Broad and Whitehall, and in Broad street between Alabama and Hunter. A special committee to investigate the company's plans was appointed.

The aldermen also refused to concur in resolutions changing the contract with Pittman Construction company for paving Auburn avenue. The company had asked that the price for concrete be increased from $9 to $10 per square yard because a more expensive mixture of concrete was required than had been intended when the bid was made and that the paving between the car tracks be changed from concrete to granite, the city furnishing the granite and the contractor furnishing labor and other materials for $1.50 per square yard.

Salad time

Wesson Oil and a fresh egg—beaten together and seasoned to taste—make the most delicious mayonnaise you ever put in your mouth.

Mayonnaise is nothing but oil and egg properly beaten together and seasoned. It is as simple and easy as that.

If the egg is fresh and the oil Wesson Oil, you are sure of a pure, delicious mayonnaise in almost no time and at a trifling cost. The quickest results are obtained if the oil and egg are not too cold. The ordinary temperature of your kitchen is just right.

Break the egg in a bowl, add about a tablespoon of Wesson Oil and beat vigorously with an egg beater or a fork—until the oil and egg are thoroughly mixed.

How long will that take? About a minute—or, maybe, while you count fifty, not as fast as you can count but as fast as you can beat.

Add another tablespoon of oil and beat again—vigorously. Two tablespoons and beat again.

Two or three more and beat again.

Your mayonnaise will begin to thicken a little.

Then add Wesson Oil four or five tablespoons at a time, beating well after each addition—until your mayonnaise is as thick and stiff as you want it. (Never add more than a quarter cupful of oil at one time).

The more oil you beat into it the thicker your mayonnaise will be.

After* your mayonnaise is made, season it. You will find that a half teaspoon of salt, a teaspoon of sugar, a teaspoon of mustard, a generous pinch each of paprika and red pepper and a tablespoon of lemon juice or vinegar is a popular seasoning. Mix the salt, sugar and spices in a cup, add the vinegar or lemon juice, stir until the salt and sugar are dissolved, and pour into the mayonnaise—beating the seasoning in well.

This makes a mild mayonnaise.

If you do not like a sweet salad dressing, leave out the sugar. If you happen to prefer a very sweet dressing add more sugar and leave out the mustard. Or if your family is fond of very spicy things, add any amount and any kind of seasoning and spices you like. Suit yourself. There is really nothing easier to make than a good mayonnaise—and you know how good it is because you know that it is made of Wesson Oil, a fresh egg and pure spices.

FRENCH DRESSING

On a salad of lettuce, fruit or cold vegetables—FRENCH DRESSING is the simplest—and at the same time the most sophisticated—of all dressings.

To six tablespoons of Wesson Oil add two tablespoons of lemon juice or vinegar, one-third teaspoon of salt and a few grains each of paprika and pepper. Stir well. Add a little chopped onion or crumbled cheese or the yolk of a hard boiled egg, or chives, or mustard, or Worcestershire Sauce or any seasoning to give this dressing a new relish when you want a change.

We have just published a little book containing numerous salad and salad dressing suggestions. A copy is yours if you will drop a postal to Wesson Oil, 206 Bay Street, Savannah, Ga., and tell us that you would like to have one.

PETREL ATHLETES GOON STRIKE, BACK AGAIN

Regulars Return in Time To Play in Games Against Wofford, Clemson, Furman

A strike of 18 Oglethorpe football and basketball stars that began Monday afternoon after suspension of a student at the university for alleged infraction of regulations, was short-lived. By 10 o'clock last night every man of the 18 who had left the campus, bag and baggage, was back. As a result Oglethorpe sends its full strength this morning to South Carolina, where last evening it looked as though Captain "Pug" Bryant would make the trip with only three regulars in his crowd of peripatetic Petrels.

The Petrels play Wofford college in two games in Spartanburg today and tomorrow. Then they go to the Furman stronghold for a pair of games Thursday and Friday and finish Saturday against the Clemson crowd.

Scrubs Play First Game.

The strike, however, has served to give the scrubs their inning. They will go on the card against Wofford in the first game and then come on back again, while the varsity plays in the second Wofford contest and then moves on for the other games.

When the offending student, yesterday afternoon was presented with a proposition to leave school, with the alternative of being suspended, he selected the alternative. As soon as the suspension was noted about his comrades rallied, sent an ultimatum to the faculty demanding the reinstatement for their friend and walked out when the ultimatum was disregarded.

Early last evening other forces gathered. Leaders of the student body drew up a petition designed to show the 18 strikers the error of their ways. When the strikers were presented with the petition voicing confidence in the faculty and approving its action, every one of the men took another hike, this time in the direction of the Petrel road institution.

Words were spoken on the return of the strikers who were no longer strikers and everything was settled.

Mainstays Walk Out.

Included in the 18 who left the school in the walkout were mainstays of the Petrel football and basketball teams. When "Pug" Bryant started checking over his list of eligibles, he found that Partridge, second sacker, and Morris and Willis, pitchers, were his only regulars who could make the Carolina trip.

"Pug" began filling out his line-up. He included Wallace, an untitled groundman; Tucker, Cox and Kent, infielders; and Hope and Storey, outfielders. These boys will make the trip just the same and will go against Wofford this afternoon.

However, when the Petrels line up for the second scrap with Wofford, varsity will be there. The mainstays, however, have started fans, with the Petrels will do duty behind the bat. Humphrey, Barbee and Peace, who are the regulars, will be replaced by Buchanan and Ferguson will work around the paths and Kemp and Partridge will go to the outer gardens.

If the Petrels are to win, they must win in a fair way to return at the end of the week with a few scraps. However, some stiff games are expected here. Petrels in the Clemson and Furman territories.

FLOWERS MADE IMPRESSIVE SHOWING IN NEW YORK BOUT

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

New York, April 21.—Two weeks or so ago Tiger Flowers, the negro middleweight from Atlanta, journeyed to New York and began throwing about 1,000,000 gloves at Lee Anderson, the 155-pound dark-skinned brawler, who is one of the heaviest punchers in the ring.

It was Flowers' first appearance in the big town and a packed house sat in for the festivities—including a big group of negroes who called Georgia their home state and, naturally, were rooting for Flowers.

In and out danced Flowers, whipping lefts and rights to Anderson's body, crossing over with an occasional right to the jaw, jabbing, stabbing, ripping and varying the ceremony once in a while with a wicked uppercut.

In one of the mixups precipitated by Flowers, during which the Tiger hit Anderson about ten times without a return, one of the Georgia group howled delightedly:

"At last! At last! At last!—he's a whole nigger!"

Which is more or less true.

For quite a long time New York has been hearing about this negro who fights nothing but heavyweights, these days because he either has whipped or frightened away all the middies and the light heavyweights. It has heard him described as "the offest thing afoot and the most colorful, picturesque performer in harness." It believes it now.

No middleweight fighter ever showed more dazzling swiftness of hands and legs than did Flowers. And none has displayed more cleverness on defense or a greater willingness to mix it up. Flowers is action—action—action—through every moment the fight endured and neither rests nor permits the other man to rest.

Uses Trick of His Own.

He has a ring trick exclusively his own. The use of it undoubtedly explains why he has been able to fight and whip such men as Frankie Carbone, Andy (Kid) Palmer, Jim Flynn, the "Pueblo Fireman," Jamaica Kid, "Tut" Jackson, Panama Joe Gans and others who have outweighed him anywhere from 10 to 75 pounds.

It's a circling shift. Flowers races in, stays with his right, shoots over a left cross or an uppercut—and then, instead of backing away, circles toward his foe's left. The other man in attempting to return the blows, must wheel around to get into range.

And, as he does, Flowers steps quickly, sets himself, and then being in position to hit, does so—and circles once more out of range. And so it goes. He always is a shifting, whirling target and rarely in position to be reached by anything other than a "roundhouse right hand."

Flowers is white, and no one could draw the color line on him, he would be a world's champion among the middleweights—and perhaps the light heavies—depending, of course, on his luck at getting a swipe at the title holder. For he is a terrific hitter—when he wants to hit—as his record of 21 kayo victories in 28 starts seems to prove.

After Flowers had hit Anderson about 2,000 punches, knocked down Anderson and outpointed him by a mile in every one of the twelve rounds, one of the biggest promoters in New York said:

BILL WHITAKER PITCHES PELICANS TO 5 TO 3 WIN

Crackers Are Held in Check By Veteran Twirler; Jackson Slashes Out Circuit Clout

BY HENRY ALLEN.

"Buzzer Bill" Whitaker, who was pitching baseball long before "Ikey" Jenkins, the Constitution's office boy, ever saw the light of day, and good baseball at that, twirled another good game out of his system against the Atlanta Crackers in the first game of a series between the home boys and the New Orleans Pelicans yesterday afternoon. The Crackers romped back to their dressing room with a winning streak of four games, but the small end of a 5 to 3 score.

But Buzzer Bill, one of the terrors of the Southern league batters last season, wasn't the only Pel to be held responsible for defeat of Bert Niehoff's crew. A young gentleman by the name of Jackson gave "William" the necessary lead to lick the Crackers by his slashing homer into the left field stands in the second inning that sent Tommy Tucker and Hoffman racing gleefully to the home fireside.

For "Buzzer Bill" was tapped more frequently for safe knocks than was George Dumont and Jack Slappey, the twirlers sent out to earn their day's pay check from the Atlanta Baseball company. A total of seven hits were credited to the Cracker batters, while the best the Pel could do was five garnered from the delivery of both the Cracker twirlers.

Holds Slight Margin.

But the slight margin that his teammates presented was all that "Buzzer Bill" needed. He was never in danger and the Crackers didn't have much of a chance, even though it seems to the oldtimers that Bill should be home telling his grandchildren how he won ball games away back in the days of long ago.

A couple of errors credited to "Buzzer Bill" and Tommy Tucker gave the Crackers two of the three tallies pushed over by the Crackers.

But George Dumont did enough flinging for the Crackers to win most any ball game in the Southern league, the fatal second inning with Jackson's homer causing the downfall.

Jack Slappey, the elongated twirler who made his debut before the Cracker fans, worked very nicely for the two innings he was allowed to face the Pelicans. Jack, who earns a living by flinging from the pitcher's mound, surprised even his staunchest supporters and may yet prove to be a valuable man to the Crackers.

The Pel started their scoring in the second. Tommy Tucker, first up, crashed out a triple into the right field bank. Hoffman was given a free ticket to first. Then Jackson lifted his circuit clout into the left field stands sending his mates home.

Crackers Score Two.

The third netted two runners for the Crackers. Dumont and Zoellers were easy outs. Barris then hit Whitaker, who threw wild and the

PENN RELAYS TO FEATURE TRACK WEEK

BY WALTER CAMP.

New York, April 21.—Track athletics step to the fore this week with the big Penn relays at Philadelphia Saturday the outstanding feature.

The Cambridge team already has arrived from England, and devotees of the cinder path are watching with interest to see how the Britishers will work out on this side. Particular interest centers about the two-mile relay team. The British have fooled us before, and they may do it again, but this year it looks like they were in for a trouncing.

That two-mile race, though, promises to be one of the greatest relay events ever held. Not only is the Cambridge team in it but there are Penn State—which set a record of seven minutes 45.4 seconds last year in Boston, Georgetown and Michigan to give it flavor.

The mile relay also is most promising with the Yale, Harvard, Virginia and Holy Cross entries.

Then there is the two-mile international which lists among the entries Fooks, of Cambridge, the crack three-miler, who is counted on to do the two-mile course in 9 minutes 30 seconds. Fooks will need speed, for the other entries include Hawth, of Johns Hopkins, the intercollegiate champion; Payne, of Colby; Leonard, of Boston; Forbes, of Iowa; Dykeman, of Carnegie Tech; and Moore, of Columbia.

The Honorable Mr. Bing

BY HORATIO LANKFORD KING

"And you thought that should have satisfied her," added Mr. Bing. "An' it ought to!" exclaimed Sawyer indignantly. "But you can't satisfy these women. They always think of something to make a row over when the time comes. They think up some religious objection or something, and spring it on you like a bomb after they've done springing up high themselves like one of those green bay trees in the Bible with what all you've done for 'em, with your money and generosity an' all."

"Yes, women are sometimes very finicky, I know," agreed Mr. Bing. "And slow to acknowledge man's prerogatives. A fault of civilization, I guess. A bother, isn't it?" Standing, tall and dignified, he regarded Sawyer with a feeling of intense nausea. Or it was a return of his dyspepsia, he was not sure. To make sure, he took a charcoal tablet from a box he always carried, chewing it as if it were a delicious succulent, still looking at Sawyer.

"But, anyway, Bing, that Mexican marriage wasn't legal," Sawyer moved to say with less arrogance. "Not receiving the sanction of the church, you mean?"

"Only in the shadow of the church, as I said—and if you know what I mean," said Sawyer lazily.

Mr. Bing felt he needed another dyspepsia tablet.

"Nevertheless, the present Mrs. Sawyer seems a little contrary, and is rather fussy over trifles. I did what I could for you, but she insisted everything was off. She even hinted at if you were present in your attempts to worry her. And she might turn about and worry you some. That's the gist of the matter, Mr. Sawyer, together with—er—what you yourself have confessed. Why not respect her wishes?"

"You mean give her up?" "Yes, cease molesting her if that is her desire. None of your business—should be denied certain liberties. It is life itself. Liberty is the very food and rain of the soul. It's all of life. Think how much you prize your own liberty. Think of a penitentiary, Mr. Sawyer. Who cares for that?"

"She has won you over with her lies," snarled Sawyer again. "But I don't mean to let her alone, or let her have any peace. I'll bound her."

"What exactly will you do?"

"I'll kill her first!"

"But I am your restraining secretary," said Mr. Bing, with a faint smile. "The automobilists are doing enough killing without your going out with a loaded gun. I have that to the more efficient—the automobilists. You'll not go near her."

"I'll fire you," shouted Sawyer. "When? Now?" asked Mr. Bing, in inexpressible relief. "Thanks."

"Bing," Sawyer now whined, "you haven't tried to do anything for me at all. You ought to have some sense of obligation. I never knew a more cold-blooded fish than you are. You haven't got a speck of gratitude in your heart—and all I've done for you!"

"I put you on your feet. I made a gentleman of you. Put money in your pocket. I came along and pulled you out of a gutter, and this is what I get for it!"

"Then I'll go back to the gutter, dear fellow. And I have a heart, because I can't stand any more of this. But you must let poor Lil alone. She wants to go home."

"What home?"

"She hasn't got a home. What are you talking about?"

"She wants to go home to her mother," said Mr. Bing, gently.

"Her mother? Her mother's been dead ten years. I can prove it. She's just lying to you, fed you up on some cock-and-bull story. You're as green as greens, you are, and she took you for a softy. She laughed at you up her sleeve, Lil did. She's laughing now. My God, I got to kill her. I can't stand this. I can't stand any more of it!"

"But you know she does have a mother," insisted Mr. Bing.

"Where does she live?"

"Somewhere out west."

"Somewhere—oh, hell!" shouted Sawyer like a madman. "It's a cock-and-bull story, I tell you. A cock-and-bull story!"

"She has a mother," Mr. Bing interrupted sternly. "And that's all there is to it. Mr. Sawyer, you ought to be allowed to go to her mother under the circumstances."

"What circumstances?"

"That you know better than I do, Mr. Sawyer. So why pretend ignorance?"

"Pretend your grandmother? I ain't pretending nothing. I got to have a drink, that's what, to steady me. To make me see straight. I ain't getting all this. I'm 'im bein' trapped! What she wants to do is go back to that feller, Traverser."

Mr. Bing, quite out of patience, took another charcoal tablet, his lips dribbling ink. The sight hypnotized the already half-paralyzed Sawyer.

"She must be allowed to go home, Mr. Sawyer, under the circumstances to her mother."

"Say—say," came from the babbling Sawyer, weakly. "I'm a crooked man maybe, but what I need is somebody's pity. I need somebody to understand what I can't put in words—what I can't seem to understand myself, because I'm drunk, or I'm drunk. I got to have somebody's pity, or I'll just naturally shoot up this town. I'll kill everybody—you, too, Bing. Where's my pistol, anyway? You hid it. But I'll find it—I'll buy another. Money's cheap. You threw away all my whisky. Poured it out in there in that bathroom. But I got more whisky. There's bootleggers everywhere. Bootleggers to burn. There's more gentlemen bootleggers than there is ranchers. An' they're a bit-minded lot, they are—fair-minded. I don't go around takin' away a feller's rights, but brings his rights to him, that's what they do. Friend your grandmother, I ain't pretending nothing. She ain't got no mother. Cock-and-bull, that's what, cock-and-bull. An' what you mean, circumstances? Know what I'm goin' to do with you, Bing?"

I'm goin' to ditch you, that's what. You'll get so broke you'll have to sell papers for a living. I'll go see Lil myself—I'll kill her. Traverser—wider mother—your grandmother! I'm goin' to kill a couple of house detectives, an' then I'm goin' to kill the whole bunch of you! He picked up a light chair, swinging it up as if he were going to throw it.

Mr. Bing retreated as far as the door. However, it was not flight; only a precaution. He was munching at another charcoal tablet. Sawyer's drunken denials and protestations did not affect him. He knew what he was going to do—locked Sawyer up. And he was going to get Lil out of New York.

"All right, Mr. Sawyer. Start in with your murderings. And when it is all over, and you are detained in a cell down in the Tombs, send me word."

That calmed Sawyer, frightened him, but only for a moment. He started about the room as if looking for something. It was a bottle full of whisky he had hidden under the bath tub. Mr. Bing underfoot, he stared, of a man who was calling upon the devil to bring down destruction, and quietly got his hat and stick and rushed off to acquaint Lil with the worst. He knew he was doing right. It was the only sane thing to do—send Lil back to her mother.

He phoned back to tell her to get ready.

You want to go home anyway, don't you?" he asked over the line. "And on are through with Lu—Miss Banks?"

"Yes, but—"

"Pack your things, then. I'm coming right out." And he made as fast as possible for her place, hoping against hope he would not run into Rosa Bronson again. And he didn't. He found Lil packed and ready—there was not much to get together and waiting for him. He went to her mother's house, but if Brad was really after her with a pistol and meant to kill her, she would not let a person off for a long trip, even though it was he who had hurried her in the unconscionable manner. She chided him, saying it was his fault if he wasn't even half dressed, much less looking very traveling-like. "But I'll be glad to get back to mother, and you have been such a fine man, Mr. Bing," said Lil. "I suppose we won't ever see each other again, but I like you better than I used to—I guess you are all right. Oh, I guess you are different."

She wanted to wait and take the night train that left about eleven. But he insisted she take the earlier train leaving just about dark, going with her to the station and carrying her light baggage. She gave him the money, a hundred-dollar bill, of which she seemed to have plenty in her purse, and he went to the window to get her ticket and was back in a minute reminding her she hadn't told him the town she was going, or the state.

"Oh, make it Los Angeles, or Hollywood," said Lil absently-mindedly.

He went back to the ticket window again, and came back a second time. "But a hundred dollars won't get you there, either place—much less your Pullman," and she irritably gave him another hundred-dollar bill. The third time he came back, and saying, "I'll be glad to get back to mother, and you have been such a fine man, Mr. Bing," said Lil. "I suppose we won't ever see each other again, but I like you better than I used to—I guess you are all right. Oh, I guess you are different."

He put her on the train, more than ever convinced he had done the right thing. The train moved out, underground, toward the Hudson tubes, Lil on it. Mr. Bing shook hands with her in goodby. She was gone back to her childhood home—her mother. That over, perhaps it wasn't just the legal thing for him to do, separate a man and his wife, but legal or not, whether it was a right or a duty of his or not, it was ethical. Very ethical and right. He was strictly a liberalist in those things. Marriage was nothing unless it was right, too. And this never had been a right marriage. That over, thank God—and nobody killed.

He had saved a couple of fools from their own intemperances. They weren't matched, anyway. God knew it. God would forgive him.

He rushed back to see what had happened to Sawyer. He was rather alarmed to find the door unlocked. He had locked it. He pushed it open, timorously, wondering if he was going to see Sawyer's dead body on the floor in a pool of his own blood—poor, intemperate fool—a suicide.

He saw Sawyer, but the intemperate fool wasn't dead, nor half way dead. Nor was he alone. There was a woman with him—a perfect stranger to Mr. Bing. A dark, Spanish-looking, rather handsome, adventurous woman—his Mexican wife, thought Mr. Bing. She had followed him to New York. Sawyer was becoming reconciled to her again, it appeared, meaning anything. He closed the door softly as once he had closed the door of Sawyer's Pullman stateroom coming up from Atlanta, and started for his own door.

He saw a lanky figure—a man—loitering there between his door and Sawyer's, and recognized it. Skibbers! What was Skibbers doing there. Suspicious, premonitions, presented themselves.

"Skibbers," he spoke sternly, "who is that person in there with Mr. Sawyer? You know, because you brought her here."

"If I do, I am actin' as his agent, my sir," said Skibbers with great aplomb. They've been like lovin' hearts separated—them two. They're old friends. He told me to find her a week ago, an' that's what I done—what I'd do for any gentleman as ast me. That in there is Miss De La Marquis, my sir. Don't you go runnin' down Miss De La Marquis," said Skibbers, thrusting out his chest, and then his chin authoritatively. "I take him as my own."

"What's that?"

"That's what I mean, my sir. I take him as my own."

LARGE AND COLORFUL AUDIENCE GREET'S METROPOLITAN IN PREMIERE OF FOURTEENTH GRAND OPERA SEASON HERE

Listeners Captivated
By Tuneful "Marta"

Another first night of opera has come and gone, and the glamour of it, still lingering in the imagination today, carries the wonder: Was this premiere really more brilliant than those which have gone before, away back for thirteen years, or did it only seem so with nearness?

The pitch of last evening was high, and gaiety was the dominant note on both sides of the footlights.

Flotow's lovely "Marta," with "The Last Rose of Summer" striking a familiar and most pleasing chord, is not expected to be taken too seriously, and so it eased the vast audience into its annual week of musical dissipation so lightly that it had scarcely a chance to realize that it was really plunged into the year's most notable social and aristocratic responsibility; for as usual, at least half of each audience will be in attendance at all of the seven performances.

With Lady Harriet and Nancy, Lionel and Plunkett—alias Madam Alda and Kathleen Howard, Gigli and de Luca—having such a good time at the fair, or such a sentimental and violent evening in the bachelor household on the stage, while the orchestra tee-tum-tummed so tunelessly, even though vacuously (for that is the kind of music Flotow gave them to play) the feminine part of the audience at the end of each act could turn without a quiver from study of the stage to study of one another's clothes.

No high-brow talk was needed about this particular "school" or "atmosphere" of the opera, or the nuances in the orchestration. It was just "Isn't Alda lovely tonight?" "Yes, my dear, and who is that in the box with the Astoribills?" Or "Did you ever hear Gigli sing more divinely?" "No, I never did, but look how stunning Mrs. Van Ludington's guest is in that green and silver gown."

Each Succeeding Season.

In each succeeding season of opera it has been conceded that certain personages or groups, have "made" the social distinction of that particular season as unquestionably as certain just as the stars give a special lustre to the artistic side. The operatic stars change from time to time, and so does the social leadership. Thus it was that in the boxes last evening, on the promenade, and afterward at the supper-dances at the clubs and hotels, there were individuals and groups "who set the social pace." Some were those who have been loyal and enthusiastic patrons of the opera since it first became an institution in Atlanta, and others newcomers who are doing their part. One distinctive feature of the scene last evening was the blending of green, poudre blue, orchid, ashes of roses, maize, coral, beige, black, white, cocoa, pink and coral in the colorful, exquisite gowns, sparkling with jewel embroidery, worn by the beautiful women who made their brilliant entrance into the Auditorium.

Everybody was seated before the orchestra played the opening strains of "Marta," and the audience gave visible acknowledgement of welcome and appreciation to the Metropolitan Opera company for the season of 1924.

The notable artists who sang in "Marta" Monday evening were Frances Alda, Kathleen Howard, Beniamino Gigli, Giuseppe de Luca, Paolo Ananian, Louis D'Angelo and Vincenzo Reschiglian. Gennaro Papi was conductor.

Informal Custom.

The informal custom of promenade entered acts emphasized the wonderful social side of opera and brought together visitors who have been here in former seasons who were cordially greeted by their Atlanta friends, and others new to Atlanta's festival of music to be presented throughout this week.

Singers Are Guests Of Music Association

The formal presentation of the artists and officers of the Metropolitan Opera company to Atlanta society for the season of 1924 was marked by the supper-dance given at the Capital City club Monday evening following the opera "Marta," initiating the series of brilliant balls which will feature the week's events.

Typical of the hospitality of the south, the custom of centering the evening's social events around the Metropolitan's artists was created at the first presentation of opera in Atlanta. The Atlanta Music Festival association and the officers and directors of the club acted as hosts of the evening, the affair assembling one of the largest and most representative gatherings of the festival season.

Thaw Case, Minus Sensation LUNATIC MAY KNOW FATE BEFORE NIGHT And Heart Throb, Near Close

Philadelphia, April 21.—The trial to determine the sanity of Harry Thaw, which opened with such promise of sensation and heart throb, drew rapidly towards its conclusion Monday, without fulfilling any of those promises.

When court adjourned, Arthur Dickson was delivering a matter of fact address to the jury on behalf of the trustees of the Thaw estate, who oppose the millionaire lunatic's release—an address as dispassionate as that of Judge Patterson, counsel for Thaw, which preceded it.

Both sides have rested, the parties opposing freedom for Thaw, contenting themselves with calling two more alienists, whose testimony weighed more heavily in Harry's favor than any that preceded it.

There remain merely the conclusion of Dickson's address, the possibility of a speech to the jury by "Billy" Gray, noted trial lawyer representing Evelyn Nesbit, the judge's charge and the jury's verdict, which probably will be rendered before sundown Tuesday.

Three Central Figures Silent.

The three outstanding figures in the case, Harry Thaw, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, his mother, and Miss Nesbit, who opposes her former husband's petition for release from the asylum, have remained strangely silent. Each was expected to play an important part on the stand, but none of the trio, for reasons known only to the attorneys involved, has spoken.

Behind the scenes, as the trial closes, far more important matters are being thrashed out than reach the ears of the jury.

As for Harry's failure to testify at length and demonstrate to the court his sanity in an undisputed manner, it will be remembered that his attorney put him on the stand Thursday and after asking a few preliminary questions, then turned him over to the opposition for any questions they might care to ask. The latter declined to question him at all, and the reason was that they had studied the records of the trial in which William Travers Jerome had Thaw on the stand for over a week and decided a lunatic was quite able to hold his own. They doubted the value to their side of possibly losing a debate with Thaw, a debate in which, if they attacked too viciously, they might sway the sympathy of this non-descript jury to the plaintiff.

Mrs. Thaw III.

As for Mrs. Thaw, the aged mother who recently changed her mind about her son's incarceration and consented to support his petition for freedom, she was to have been one of Judge Patterson's aces. When the logical moment came for her to testify, she was conveniently ill, confined to her hotel, although she showed up a few hours later, after Thaw's side had rested, looking as well as ever.

Mr. Thaw, it is known, was not called to the stand because of facts concerning her real attitude towards the case which reached the lawyers opposing Harry's release within the past few days.

It develops that Mrs. Thaw, who for years was satisfied that her son was in the proper place, was persuaded to change her mind and endorse his petition after Harry had written her, threatening to escape from Kirkbridge's asylum and flee to Canada if she didn't do so. Informing his mother that he could more easily escape from his present asylum than when he made his getaway from Mattewan, Harry is understood to have requested her to consent to his release. The possibility of this being brought out in cross-examination, apparently effectively silenced Mrs. Thaw.

Evelyn Third Party.

The third party to the inside play going on in the Thaw case is Evelyn Nesbit. Evelyn wants Harry kept locked up, she says, so that he won't have an opportunity to squander the fortune which some day may go to her son Russell, born while she was still married to Thaw. Although at a time when the millionaire had been incarcerated at Mattewan for more than a year.

She also professes to be certain that if Thaw were released, he would revert to type and commit further acts of sexual perversion. There was some question as to the value of Evelyn's testimony, however, as she hadn't known Thaw for 10 years.

Now the case has closed without Evelyn being put on the stand, and there was a possibility Monday night that the reason for this failure might become known in connection with a new and important development in the case.

Two alienists, Dr. Burr and Dr. Weisenberg, testified Monday that Thaw, in their opinion, was a "moral lunatic," incapable of controlling sex impulses that had proved vicious, homicidal and perverted in the past and would prove so again if he were released. But both these learned men admitted they found nothing to indicate this in their recent examinations of Thaw at Kirkbridge's, and that they based it all upon his record. Both admitted him to be sound mentally.

After a long involved argument over the admission of the record of the Gump case, Judge Patterson summed up for the plaintiff. He wound up on the keynote of "justice and liberty for Harry Kendall Thaw."

Arthur Dickson's summation was interrupted by the closing bell, after he had proceeded with a picturesque little review of Harry's life, in which he spared no details of the millionaire's peculiarities, perversions and perversions.

Thaw, he said, might be of sound mind in some respects, but there was little doubt that he was sorely sick with "moral leprosy."

Agricultural Credits Will Be Considered At Meet of Bankers

Augusta, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—The Georgia Bankers' convention in Augusta, the last half of this week will feature on its program for Saturday, April 26, the subject of agricultural credits. Speakers of the day will be R. A. Cooper, commissioner of the farm loan board, Washington, D. C., and Howard C. Arnold, secretary of the Federal Land bank and of the Intermediate Credit bank at Columbia, S. C., having jurisdiction over Georgia.

The administration of the intermediate credit banks, as well as the federal land banks, is vested in the federal farm loan board, of which Governor Cooper is the head. The Intermediate Credit bank was created by the agricultural credit act of 1923.

By devoting an entire day of the Georgia Bankers' convention to the discussion of the banks, leaders seek to give the banks of the state a better understanding of the functions of the intermediate credit banks. Banks are eligible to discount agricultural paper for cooperative marketing associations and for counties, a latitude ranging from six months to three years is given in maturities. With these conditions thoroughly understood by banks of the state, it is believed that a large amount of paper will be found, the proceeds of which have been used for agricultural purposes and which the intermediate credit bank will gladly handle.

If the deliberations at Augusta should confirm this view of the situation, it will bring great relief to the entire state because in almost every county the need exists for new money to make the 1924 crops and that need can be more fully supplied, it is thought, by enlisting the help of the Intermediate Credit bank at Columbia.

CASH BONUS PLAN GEST TEST TODAY

Washington, April 21.—A showdown on the proposal for a cash option in the pending straight insurance soldier bonus bill was demanded in the senate today by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, after his party leaders had formally withdrawn such a substitute measure.

Agreement was reached to vote on the cash option proposal tomorrow afternoon and Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, in charge of the measure, announced he would seek a final vote on the bonus bill by tomorrow night.

Senator Copeland offered the cash option amendment which was drawn up by the minority members of the finance committee and which Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, its author, just previously had announced would not be pressed. Mr. Walsh had said he would offer the amendment when the pending insurance bill became a law.

Fear Bonus Defeat.
When Senators Copeland, Dill, democrat, Washington, and Norris, republican, Nebraska, earlier had requested Mr. Walsh to put the proposal forward now "and let the blame for its defeat fall where it may," the Massachusetts senator was defended in his course by Senator Robinson, Arkansas, democrat leader. Senator Robinson and Senator Walsh insisted that to put the cash option in the bill now would work probably to defeat any bonus legislation. They pointed to the declarations of several republican senators who announced on the floor they would vote to sustain a presidential veto of a cash and insurance bill, but would vote to override a veto of the straight insurance measure.

Republican leaders were confident tonight that the cash option would not be voted in, pointing out that advocates of the pending measure would be joined probably by all opponents of a bonus bill.

Curtis Explains Bill.
Senator Norris said a cash and insurance bill could be passed over a presidential veto in the house and that, while he had made no poll, he believed there was a good chance to obtain enough votes for this also in the senate.

Senator Walsh thought it wise, he said, to get a bonus law first and then seek to amend it.

Defending the pending bill, Senator Curtis pointed out the measure was practically the same as the bill passed last session except that two of the four options were eliminated. The old bill provided, as does the pending measure, he pointed out, for cash payments only to veterans not entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service compensation. The present bill would provide 20-year endorsement insurance policies for other veterans.

Senator Norris said he did not object to the insurance provision but thought the beneficiaries ought to be given the right to choose whether they should receive cash or insurance. If a cash and insurance bill were favorably approved, he said, he would urge all veterans to choose the insurance feature.

Would Sound Coolidge.
The proposal offered by Senator Copeland provides for issuance of $1,500,000,000 in additional second Liberty loan bonds to provide funds for payment of the cash to those choosing it. Such payments would not be made until nine months after the enactment of the bill into law.

Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, again asked republican leaders to determine the attitude of President Coolidge on the pending measure, asserting that if the president was intending to sign the straight insurance proposition and veto a cash and insurance bill, the senate ought to know it. Senator Walsh insisted the "rumors" that the president would sign

Alleged Drunks Who Beat Couple To Be Tried Today

Macon, Ga., April 21.—Trial of Oscar Williamson, Macon policeman, charged with assaulting Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Morrow, of Kankakee, Illinois, in a tourist camp here early Sunday morning, was continued until Tuesday and the bonds of both men were raised from $300 to $500.

Williamson and Stripling are charged with having gone to the tent of Mr. and Mrs. Morrow early Sunday morning, saying they were officers and were searching for booze. The two tourists were dragged from their cots in their night clothes and severely beaten, when they objected to the search. Morrow was unable to leave the hospital today. Both Williamson and Stripling are alleged to have been drunk at the time of the attack.

BOYS' WEEK PROGRAM IS PLANNED BY CLUBS
Thomasville, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—"Boys' week" will be observed here beginning on April 27 and continuing through May 3, under the auspices of the Rotary club, Lions club, Y. M. C. A., American Legion, junior chamber of commerce and various other civic organizations.

The program as planned will begin with a union service for boys, held at one of the churches of the city on Sunday afternoon, April 27. Starting Monday there will be special exercises in the schools each day and on Thursday a parade of boys with floats and other features will be staged. Saturday will be "Out-of-doors" day and a program is planned at the Archfield plantation.

The pending measure must be "ground less" in the light of the statement in his message to congress that he did not favor a bonus bill.

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, announced his support for the cash option amendment, and Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, urged passage of the pending bill.

DAWES AND YOUNG START HOME TODAY

Paris, April 21.—Premier Poincare has informed President Barthou of the reparations commission that the French government is disposed to do everything necessary to assure the success of the experts' proposals.

Poincare's message declares that the government will await the decisions of the reparations commission regarding the manner of putting the plan into operation, and that after these decisions the government will determine what measures it will take itself.

Meanwhile, the three American experts, Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, Owen D. Young and Henry M. Robinson, are sailing Tuesday for America on the S. S. Leviathan.

They are jubilant over the European reaction to the report and are confident that the report will form the basis for a European settlement. But they are not talking about it just now.

"We did all our writing in the report, and all our talking in the committee," Young said, when asked to comment on the present status of the situation. "Let others talk and write now," he added.

PAYNE NEGRO COLLEGE BEGINS COMMENCEMENT

Cuthbert, Ga., April 21.—(Special.) Payne college, one of the oldest negro schools in southwest Georgia, under the A. M. E. church, is now in the midst of its closing exercises. The school, though much in need of dormitories for the boarding students and of increasing industrial activities, has had a prosperous year, President A. B. Cooper stated today.

Rev. W. Boyd Lawrence preached the commencement sermon Sunday to a large audience. Presiding Elder F. M. Johnson will speak to the graduating class Wednesday morning. Bishop J. S. Flipper, of Atlanta, will preside at the trustees' meeting Tuesday, at which time plans will be discussed for meeting the needs of the institution.

Dr. J. H. Smith, treasurer of the Morris Brown system, will report to the board the financial condition of the work. Many pastors will report educational funds raised since the annual conference last fall to presiding officers.

E. H. GARY ATTACKS CONGRESS PROBES

Hoboken, N. J., April 21.—Brandenburg congress as "the worst thing confronting the country," at the present time, E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, sharply attacked the national legislative body for the manner in which it is conducting its investigation in an address at the stockholders' annual meeting of the corporation today.

"No one can object to investigations decently and honestly conducted, but many of the investigations now in progress are unwarranted and unjustified," Mr. Gary said. "Some of the probes have been carried to unreasonable limits simply to injure personal reputations. A phrase used several years ago 'investigate the investigators' might well be revived and repeated today."

Mr. Gary characterized President Coolidge as a man "as strong and everlasting as the rock of Gibraltar." The president's purpose is to benefit all the people without injuring any honest man, he asserted.

Referring to the business outlook Judge Gary said: "Business men who cannot see the sun of prosperity shining ahead are men either of poor judgment or intellect. I have great faith in the future of American business, but I expect further recessions in volume of trade as a natural consequence of the presidential campaign."

The United States Steel corporation is doing a good business, but suffered a slight decline in orders last month, according to Mr. Gary. In view of the unusual expansion at the beginning of the year it was surprising that the business had not fallen off to a greater extent, he said.

All the directors of the corporation were re-elected.

STONE IS PRESENTED TO SUPREME COURT
Washington, April 21.—The new attorney general, Harlan F. Stone, was formally presented to the supreme court today.

He was admitted to practice before the court in 1920. The ceremonies today were simple, consisting of introduction of the attorney general by Solicitor General E. A. Tamm, and a few words of welcome by Chief Justice Taft.

CARAWAY WOULD TAKE BILL FROM COMMITTEE

Washington, April 21.—A motion in the senate today by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, for discharge of the senate agricultural committee from further consideration of his bill to prevent trading in cotton and grain futures on exchanges went over without prejudice.

When the motion was made Senator Robinson, democrat leader, explained that Senator Ransdell, democrat, Louisiana, a member of the committee, asked that the motion be held over until he returned to the city.

Senator Caraway said he understood every member of the committee except Senator Ransdell was willing to have the committee discharged, but Senator Ransdell is "opposed to the bill on account of the New Orleans cotton exchange."

LAST RITES ARE HELD FOR MRS. PAUL BROWN

Albany, Ga., April 21.—St. Paul's Episcopal church was filled yesterday afternoon with sorrowing relatives and friends of Mrs. Paul J. Brown, whose sudden death occurred Saturday afternoon when a gas water heater in her bathroom exploded while she was bathing. The service was conducted by the rector, Rev. John Moore Walker.

The church was a bower of floral offerings sent by friends of the family. Interment followed in Oakview cemetery.

FLOYD JURY ENJOINS HOTEL MANAGEMENT

Rome, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—A jury in the case against the present management of the Third Avenue hotel here, today returned verdict against the proprietor and sustained the injunction sought under the nuisance act. The effect of the verdict is that the present manager can not operate a hotel in this judicial circuit again within 12 months.

The hotel will be operated by the Floyd Land company, owner of the building, it is stated.

Hall Convicts Who Fled Gang Are Still Free

Gainesville, Ga., April 21.—(Special.)—No trace had been found of Decatur and George Crawley and Blaine Stewart, convicts serving on the Hall county chain gang, who escaped from the convict camp, three miles south of Gainesville Sunday officers announced late tonight. The three men were trustees.

They had citizen's clothes hidden in camp and after dark slipped out of camp, one at a time, going down the Southern railroad tracks about half mile, where they changed clothes, camp officers declare. The clothes have been found.

The Crawley boys' mother, who lives in Atlanta, said to be seriously ill and the men had applied for permit to go to Atlanta, and the prison commission had consented. Captain Stringer in charge of the convict camp, went to Atlanta and visited the Crawley home, but no trace of the escaped men was found, although practically all the Crawley family in this section of the state was visiting the sick woman.

Both the Crawleys were life-terms. Stewart has served two years of a 10-year sentence.

The escaped men were convicted of slaying Deputy United States Marshal E. D. Nixon, who attempted to arrest George and Decatur Crawley on charges of violation of the selective draft during the time of the world war. The shooting occurred at the Crawley home in the mountains near Blairsville.

The three fled to mountains in North Carolina, where a detachment of soldiers from Camp Gordon, near Atlanta, searched for them. They were not found. Later S. Glenn Young, then a United States deputy revenue agent, captured them.

The men were sentenced to hang at the first trial, but after a bitter legal battle, secured a second trial and were sentenced to life imprisonment. Rose Crawley, sister of the boys and accused of complicity in the shooting, was freed at the second trial.

Stewart is a cousin of the Crawley boys.

An Obliging Beauty Doctor

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."—(adv.)

Mrs. Betty Lyle Wilson, undoubtedly the most noted domestic science lecturer in the United States, and author of several of America's premier cook books, will be with us during the special demonstration and sale of Round Oak Gas Ranges, continuing up to and including Saturday, April 26.

Mrs. Wilson, of national and even international fame, first gained public attention a number of years ago when she baked the White House cake for the President. Her wide experience with every kind of cooking apparatus places her judgment at a premium. Her favorable comments and personal testimony have been solicited by manufacturers, but, true to her own convictions, she recommends no article to be of merit unless in her personal experience it has measured up to the high standard that she justly demands.

ROY LEONA TAKES BLAME IN KILLING

New Orleans, April 21.—Roy Leona, one of the six men sentenced to hang on May 9, for the killing of Dallas Calmes, restaurant proprietor, at Independence, La., May 8, 1921, in a signed confession tonight stated he killed Calmes and declared the other five men were innocent.

"I killed Dallas Calmes," Leona said in his confession, which was written out for him by Father Raymond Carr, of St. Patrick's Catholic church, and signed in the presence of a police official and newspapermen. "I am responsible for everything. I fired two shots and they killed him. The others are absolutely innocent."

Calmes was killed during an attempt to rob a bank at Independence. The six men were tried twice, each time being given the extreme sentence. Their appeals to the state supreme court and the United States supreme court were lost. A petition for commutation of sentence was filed with the pardon board but "was withdrawn before the board met. Governor Parker recently refused to grant a reprieve."

Leona stated that he and his companions drove to the bank in Independence in an automobile. Arriving at the bank he jumped over a fence in the rear of Calmes' yard. Calmes was awakened by the breaking of a door. Calmes, he said, opened a door and fired four shots at him. "I was there when Calmes fired at me and I returned the fire which killed him," Leona stated.

A. J. Henriques, one of the attorneys for the six men, tonight after being informed of the confession, declared he would go before the pardon board with the case.

The other men sentenced to die with Leona are Joseph Rini, Joseph Giglio, Joseph Bochio, Andrea Laminant and Natalie Deasme.

COTTON REPORT BILL GOES TO PRESIDENT

Washington, April 21.—The house tonight passed the senate bill providing for issuance semi-monthly of cotton reports by the department of agriculture and for their publication simultaneously with the ginning reports of the commerce department. The measure now goes to the president.

Another bill passed by the house would authorize the census bureau to take a census to determine the amount of cotton in warehouses and other places and to make an estimate of the number of bales on farms. The measure, which was introduced by Representative Byrnes, democrat, South Carolina, now goes to the senate.

The senate bill approved by the house, acreage reports based upon the intention of cotton growers to plant would be discontinued. The reports of the department of agriculture as to conditions, progress and probable production of cotton would be issued twice a month, between July 1 and December 1. Between August 1 and December 1 the crop and ginning reports would be made public at the same time.

The bill, which was sponsored by the "cotton bloc" will result, in the opinion of the house agriculture committee, which recommended its passage in preventing, among other things, violent fluctuations in the price of cotton. It also would tend to discourage different interpretations of the two reports.

In its report the committee said that during the critical growing period of the cotton crop, weather and other factors may greatly change the outlook within a week or so.

"When such a change occurs shortly after a monthly crop report is issued," the committee said, "it leaves the whole situation in a condition of great uncertainty until the next report, and many rumors and conflicting reports are issued which tend to disturb the market."

Reduce Price Changes. "With an official government report coming out every two weeks it is believed that great fluctuations in the price will be materially reduced. It will be particularly advantageous to the farmers in the marketing of their crop."

The bill also provides for three cotton statisticians to act on the cotton marketing board. The committee estimated that it would take about $70,000 additional to provide for satisfactory semi-monthly reports, the bulk of the cotton crop, weather and ginning reports would be made public at the same time.

LABOR CHIEFTAINS LEAD 'DAMP' PLEA

BY E. B. MacDONALD.
Washington, April 21.—Wets and dry filled the house judiciary committee's hearing room to overflowing Monday when consideration of measures permitting the sale of 2.75 per cent beer started, and the stirring scenes which obtained prior to passage of the eighteenth amendment were reenacted.

It was a wet day, representatives of practically every big labor union appearing to ask return of beer with a bigger kick, but the Woman's Temperance Union, resplendent in white badges and Wayne B. Wheeler, marshal of the dry hosts, were also there as a reminder that the drys are ever vigilant.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, led the wet attack. He declared himself unalterably against the entire eighteenth amendment, and told the committee the American workingman must be given the right to drink beer.

Delivers Strong Plea. He delivered a strong plea for liberalization of the enforcement law, declaring that the only return of a "warming and palatable" drink would bring content to the working classes. Other representatives of labor did not exhibit such strong antagonism to the prohibition amendment, confining themselves instead to a demand for "beer with a bigger kick."

John H. Walker, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, whose name caused a remonstrance to flicker over the countenances of the attentive audience, addressed himself entirely to the beneficial effects which 2.75 per cent beer would have. "Those who vote for this measure," he declared, "will be voting to banish the intolerable conditions brought about by the fanatical Volstead act. And those who vote against it will be voting to maintain the misery which has resulted from misdirected religious zeal."

Emergency Is Past. "I was in sympathy with the Volstead act when it was enacted because there was a grave emergency existing during those troubled war days, but that emergency is past, and I now firmly believe that the greatest evil now existing in this country is this same Volstead act."

Heckled by dry members of the committee, who declared 2.75 per cent beer would be intoxicating, Walker said "A man's stomach would burst before he could get drunk on that stuff. All it is, is a mild stimulant. Two-seventy-five beer is to the ordinary man what tea is to a woman."

Other members of labor organizations who appeared were: J. A. Voll, president of International Glass Workers' union; John Sullivan, vice president of the New York State Federation of Labor; James O'Connell, president of the metal trades' section of the A. F. of L.; and Matthew Wolf, vice president of the A. F. of L.

Predictions that the measure would pass congress if favorably reported by the committee were made during the hearing by Representative Hill, of Maryland, democrat, leader of the wet forces in the house. Wayne B. Wheeler, however, said he would be surprised if more than one-third of the members of the committee voted in favor of 2.75 per cent beer, and declared any modification of the Volstead act did not "stand a ghost of a chance of passing the house."

Renewal of the fight to establish a pay ward in Grady hospital is scheduled at a public hearing before the charter revision committee at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. The city charter now prohibits charging any fee for service rendered at Grady.

Councilman W. E. Saunders, chairman of the charter revision committee, said that all charter revision proposals, except those affecting schools, would be considered at the Friday meeting.

Other changes include repeal of the schedule of fees for building and electrical permits, requiring 10 per cent of land in residence subdivisions to be set aside for park purposes, and making chief of construction subject to election by council.

TELEGRAPHERS WIN ON RULES DECISION

Chicago, April 21.—A rule requiring the employment of railway telegraphers in the operation of automatic printers was upheld today by the United States railroad labor board in a decision disposing of rules in dispute on 22 roads. Most of the disputes decided favorably to the employees. The decision affecting automatic printers applies on the Southern Pacific only, where the rule was in dispute.

It was represented on behalf of the employees that virtually all the rules upheld today were already in effect as the result of negotiations between the carriers and the Order of Railway Telegraphers, in some instances prior to the formation of the labor board.

The Virginia railway, where the strike of engine employees has not been settled, was granted a rule providing that while questions of grievances are pending, there will be neither a lock-out nor a strike.

Among the roads affected in the disposal of local rules were: Galveston, Harrisburg and Seaboard, Houston and Shreveport, Houston and Texas Central, Houston Belt and Terminal, Houston East and West Texas, International Great Northern, Kansas City Southern, Lake Charles and Northern, Louisiana Western, Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad, and Steamship company. Southern Air Line, Southern Pacific, (Pacific system); Texarkana and Fort Smith and Texas and New Orleans.

The rules upheld are authorized "to be included in the schedules of those of the aforementioned roads where they were in dispute."

Carnival of Knives at Nice Ends With 15 Battlers Cut

Nice, April 21.—Scores of American tourists watched a bitter Mediterranean knife and gun fight here Monday, as fascist and anti-fascist staged a desperate battle in the Saint Jaume church.

Fifteen persons were wounded in desperate fighting when the Italian consul general, two vice consuls and a band of fascisti were besieged in the church and stood off anti-fascist attacks for several hours.

The fighting started when a local fascist organization marched to the church for the benediction of its flag. The Italian officials came to attend the ceremony. Extremist groups had announced that they would prevent the service, and a jeering crowd was on hand when the fascisti arrived.

A terrific battle followed. Revolvers were fired as the police attempted to drive off the anti-fascist. Knives flashed when the struggling groups came to grips, and the fascisti were finally forced back into the church, barricading themselves there. Crowds of tourists assembled, and police cordons were thrown about the church. The extremists launched new attacks. Finally mounted police arrived on the scene, charged and dispersed the rioters and conducted the Italian officials to their homes. The attackers followed the fascisti groups, but police guarded them from further harm.

Why Are You Gray?

Science tells us that hair turns gray on for any reason it fails to receive proper amount of pigment or coloring matter from the cells in the scalp. No matter what the cause of the grayness, it is amazing to see how quickly it disappears when the clean, colorless liquid known as Kolor-Bak is used.

Gray hair, of any former color, is quickly restored to its exact original shade by applying Kolor-Bak, which is a true substitute for the natural pigmentation. Results often appear in a week.

"My Hair Was Quite Gray" "Only a short time ago my hair was quite gray and I was coming grayer. It was falling out. My scalp itched and dandruff appeared. Only a few applications of Kolor-Bak stopped the itching and dandruff. My hair soon stopped coming out. Most wonderful of all, however, is that my hair is again its original color. I look ten years younger."

Kolor-Bak costs you nothing unless results are satisfactory. Made by Hygienic Laboratories, Chicago, Illinois.

New York, April 21.—Reports of favorable weather for the new crop in the south and the unsettled condition of the stock market were considered chiefly responsible for a break about 70 to 80 points in the cotton market today. Contracts for July delivery sold off to 21.75 and closed 21.90, or about 12 points up from the lowest. The general market was steady at net declines of 47 to 81 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 20 to 40 points. Owing to continued reports of the Easter holidays, there were no Liverpool cables and the market seemed to be very faintly impressed by reports of good weather in the south over the holidays. Continued reports of continued depression in the cotton goods markets were also a factor on the decline and five months' cotton showed net losses about 40 to 50 points. A number of general points on British southern views met another flurry of liquidation during the afternoon, but later a somewhat under Wall street, local and foreign selling, May, July, and October and 42 and October to 24.25 and the close was within 7 to 12 points of a low.

New York, April 21.—Stock prices broke sharply today under the weight of the large volume of selling for both accounts. Selling pressure extended over a wide list but was most effective in the steel, oil, sugar and textile issues.

A break of more than 17 points in Consolidated, believed to represent enforced liquidation of a bull pool, unsettled the general list soon after the opening. The first sale of this stock was a block of 13,000 shares at the "spread" opening price of $49 to $50 a share, against $52.25, the closing price on Saturday.

Continued diversion of banking funds into Liberty bonds attracted attention in an otherwise dull trading session. The four of the 1-4-4 Treasury 4-1s established a new record at 101.19-20. Closing prices were somewhat lower, however, and showed substantial net gains for the day.

The reactionary tone displayed by leading industrial issues resulted from liquidation of a number of bull pools, accompanied by the break in stock prices. Independent steel, chemical and oil company obligations reflected the attack on these shares in the stock market. Wilson & Company's 6's dropping four points.

Unconfirmed reports that the Dutch government was planning to float a $5,000,000 guilder loan caused a slight decline in Netherlands 6's. Other foreign issues, however, were steady. Japanese obligations making moderate recovery.

The New York Central railroad, it was reported, was preparing to offer shortly an equipment issue totaling from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

Gulf States steels dropped more than two points each.

Heavy liquidation of the oil shares sent practically all of the active issues, including Standard Oil of New Jersey and California, Marland, Cosden and Pacific, to new low prices for the year.

In all 166 stocks established new low records for the year during the session, which was one of the most active in the last two months. So great was the decline in the industrial group that it sent the average of 20 leading stocks in that group to a new 1924 minimum. The average of 20 leading railroad stocks is now about half a point above the year's low.

Included in the list of new lows were Baldwin, American Sugar Refining, American Can, Dupont, United States Industrial Alcohol, General Motors, American Woolen, National Lead and Baltimore and Ohio.

Outstanding strength was shown by Chesapeake and Ohio, which crossed 75 for a net gain of nearly three points on reports that the proposed merger of the road with "Nickel Plate" would result in the common stocks of each being placed on a seven per cent basis. Pere Marquette advanced 1 1/2 points, but Norfolk and Western fell back nearly two points to 12 1/2.

Call money held at four per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with 4 1/2 per cent for 90 days.

Owing to the observance of Easter Monday holiday abroad, trading in the foreign exchanges was quiet. Demand for sterling was taken off a liberal decrease of the domestic visible supply, the decrease being about what the market had looked for. Opening of the London market failed also to act as a stimulant to buyers.

On the other hand, declines in stocks and cotton contributed to weakness of wheat as well as of other grains. The North American progress of corn planting, evidence of increased acreage and slowness of shipping call here tended to force corn prices down. Oats gave with wheat.

Lower quotations on hogs pulled down provisions.

1 MAN, 165 HORSES DIE IN STOCK YARDS FIRE

Richmond, Va., April 21.—Charles Bernick, 30, lost his life, and 165 horses and mules were burned to death in a fire which completely destroyed the Southern Stock Yards here early today, causing damage estimated at $200,000. The origin of the blaze, which was seen first in the feed store, has not been determined. Police are investigating the theory that a lighted cigarette carelessly thrown into a feed bin started the conflagration.

The fire was discovered by police men shortly before 2 o'clock and before the arrival of fire apparatus had spread to virtually the entire structure which covered several acres of ground. There was little time to rescue the animals locked in stalls, although many of them were gotten to safety. Others, after being liberated, rushed back into the flames and were either burned to death or crushed by falling timbers.

Three negroes, two men and a woman, were saved by jumping from a second story window. Bernick, a stable hand, it is thought, was killed by falling timber while asleep. His body was found on his cot after the flames had been extinguished.

A race track among inmates of the Home for Incurables, across the street from the stock yards, was caused by the fire spreading to the grounds adjoining the stock yards. The blaze was soon put out and order restored among the sick. None was hurt.

Louisiana Voters Ratify Primary At Polls Today

New Orleans, April 21.—Citizens of Louisiana will go to the polls tomorrow to cast their ballots for candidates for all state and district offices and the legislature. The election will be merely a formal ratification of the nominations made in the democratic primary several weeks ago and the vote is expected to be only a fraction of that cast in the primary.

The republicans, in order to hold their party status, have nominated three candidates. They have offered James S. Milliken for governor; John A. Wozan for lieutenant governor and E. J. Dike for secretary of state. The democratic choice for governor is Henry L. Dugas.

In the second congressional district the voters will elect J. Zack Spear, of New Orleans, representative of the unexpired term of the late H. Garland Dugas. Mr. Spear, a special primary last month, defeated Genevieve Clark Thomson and J. Semmes Walmesley for the nomination.

DENVER MOURNS FAMOUS "CON" MAN WHO DIED IN PEN

Denver, Colo., April 21.—Lou Blonger, convicted leader of an international gang of confidence men, who died as he feared, within the state penitentiary at Canon City, will be laid to rest on Wednesday morning. The funeral services were arranged today by his widow. Today Blonger, who died a convict, but who was known to many of Denver's poor as their benefactor, was buried in the city cemetery. A large group of friends who had known him for years—persons who during his reign here as a political boss, had been his friends—were present at the funeral. Blonger's body arrived from Canon City through the morning, according to reports, on the morning train. He was laid out at the mortuary where his body was being kept. He was an endless stream of persons called by pay their last respects.

GIRLS' DORMITORIES BURN; LOSS $200,000

Wilmore, Ky., April 21.—May Crawford hall and Glide hall, both dormitories for girls, and the power plant at Ashbury college were destroyed by fire here today with an estimated loss of $200,000.

Arrival of a fire engine from Lexington, about 25 miles away, saved other college buildings from destruction and relieved the population of the town. Three deep wells on the college campus provided an available water supply and within a couple of hours after the arrival of the Lexington engine the fire was under control.

REBEL LEADER KILLED; BOY TO BE EXHIBITED

Mexico City, April 21.—General Marcel Cavañoz, rebel leader, who for months has menaced rail communications north of Mexico City, was surrounded near the village of Pueblo Nuevo, near Pachuca, this morning with 50 followers, and was killed together with General Lorenzo Alandia.

The bodies of General Cavañoz and General Alandia are being taken to Pachuca, 50 miles north of Mexico City, to be exhibited.

General Cavañoz with 400 men attacked Pachuca Saturday, but was repulsed after heavy street fighting. Later he was surrounded near Cardel, state of Hidalgo, by General Daniel Rios Zertuche with 1,000 men. Another 1,000 men were quickly rushed from Pachuca in automobiles, but Cavañoz managed to break the circle with a force of picked troops.

Airplanes from Mexico City, ordered, quickly located him near Puebla. Cavañoz was surrounded and killed. The federal troops took more than 200 prisoners, according to an official report.
